Friend Or Foe:

Friend Or Foe? Michael J. Strada, Harold Martin Troper, Harold R. Troper, 1997 During the nearly sixty years of filmmaking the always uneasy and often fractious Soviet American relationship has been mirrored in Hollywood's portrayal of Russians and the Soviet Union Friend or Foe examines the portrayal of the Soviet Union in American film and shows how these films reflect the attitudes of Americans as well as how each portrayal changed with the often uneasy relations between the two countries The authors show how films as rich repositories of national consciousness can be analyzed to reveal time bound insights into popular fears and obsessions History lovers and film buffs will appreciate the tongue in cheek approach to many of the absurdist films Scholars in history film studies and political science will find the depth and breadth of research useful A filmography bibliography and photographs further complement the study Friend or Foe? The Figure of

Babylon in the Book of Jeremiah MT John Hill, 2021-09-06 This work presents a literary interpretation of Babylon in the book of Jeremiah MT It moves beyond historical critical approaches which have long dominated Jeremiah research and shows that metaphor is central to a synchronic reading of the book The study shows that Babylon is a multi layered metaphor at one level it is the archetypal enemy of both Judah and its God at another level it is metaphorically identified with Judah The study also explores the idea of the unended exile and shows how this idea so central to post exilic Judaism is also found in the book of Jeremiah MT Friend or Foe Paul Kemp, 1993-09-14 During the Second World War there were over 100 instances of naval engagements between ships submarines and aircraft of the same side In the past there has often been a reluctance by the authorities to admit to these losses but with operational records now available it is possible for historians to explain how a good number of ships and submarines were attacked damaged or sunk by the forces of their own side Friend Or Foe

S. Mullis, 1993-09 Discusses friendly fire casualties in combat Attention on this problem was focused by the recent Persian Gulf War in which 24 percent of U S combat fatalities were due to friendly fire U S combat losses as a whole from this cause are estimated to be 10% of the total Makes recommendations on how this can be avoided in future combat situations Graphs drawings b w photos Friend or Foe Nils

Hägerdal, 2021-07-06 When civil conflicts break out in plural societies violence often occurs along group divides running the risk of spiraling into ethnic cleansing Yet for militants who do not seek ethnic separation as a political goal indiscriminate attacks are detrimental to their cause Under what circumstances are such combatants more or less likely to commit ethnic violence Nils Hägerdal examines the Lebanese civil war to offer a new theory that highlights the interplay of ethnicity and intelligence gathering He shows that when militias can obtain reliable intelligence particularly in demographically intermixed areas where information can cross ethnic boundaries they are likely to refrain from indiscriminate tactics Access to local intelligence helps armed groups distinguish between neutral and hostile non coethnics to target individual opponents while leaving civilians in peace Conversely when militias struggle to access local information they often fall back on ethnicity as a proxy for political allegiance with bloody consequences As intelligence capabilities shape the course of sectarian strife the role of ethnicity can vary even within a particular conflict H gerdal conducted sixteen months of fieldwork in Lebanon interviewing former militia fighters and commanders and collecting novel statistical evidence He combines documentation by government agencies NGOs local news media and the United Nations with firsthand narratives by participants to provide an unparalleled account of the processes that generate violence or coexistence when a diverse society descends into armed conflict Theoretically innovative and descriptively rich Friend or Foe sheds new light on the logic and dynamics of ethnic violence in civil wars

Friend or Foe Alistair Horne, 2012-05-03 Britain's premier historian on France from Caesar to Mitterrand to coincide with the centenary of the Entente Cordiale A century after the Entente Cordiale ended centuries of war and enmity between France and Britain and two hundred years after the coronation of Britain's deadly enemy Napoleon Bonaparte as Emperor Alistair Horne contemplates two thousand years of France The Entente Cordiale meant different things to the signatories For France it meant quite simply the certainty at last of an ally who would counter balance the dread power of Kaiser Wilhelm II's vast and menacing Reich on her doorstep For Britain the Entente signified an end to centuries of conflict with France but it also meant inevitable involvement in a major European war The modern rift over the Iraq war has emphasized once again that a slim channel of water may be all that separates the countries physically but in temperament in attitudes in life generally and particularly in history itself the differences remain fundamental and intense

Islam: Friend or Foe? Adam Canute, 2025-03-04 In the context of prevailing uncertainty as to what Islam importantly represents in the modern world Islam Friend or Foe constitutes a unique and authoritative analysis of Islam's essential identity based on Islam's own documents plus its generally accepted history The purpose is to provide the evidence necessary for readers to make an informed and responsible opinion concerning Islam About the author The author writing under a pen name is a conservative senior churchman resident and active in an established Continuing Care Retirement Community in New England Raised in suburban New Jersey and educated early in public schools and then in private non sectarian schools first in a local country day school and then in a private boarding school he enlisted in the United States Navy before graduation and served as a pharmacist's mate After the war he attended and graduated from an Ivy League college before similarly attending and graduating from an Episcopal seminary and subsequently he was ordained a deacon and then a priest After serving for many years he was eventually disciplined for refusing to accept certain liberal doctrines and practices whereupon he was consecrated a bishop to serve non conforming Anglicans before eventually retiring In addition to forty odd years of active ministry he married raised two children and while still able enjoyed gardening hiking and carrying on voluminous correspondence in defense of classical Anglican theology and practice
