

Earth Day

Earth Day was one of the biggest civil events in the planet. In April 21, Earth Day is about caring for the Earth and taking awareness about how to do so. Despite its name, this holiday isn't just a day. It's a movement! People came together to do activities like picking up litter and planting trees.

The first Earth Day was celebrated in 1970. It was organized by Senator James Earl Ray, Nelson Rockefeller with an official record. Since then, who organized various events like people went on to organize events across America, and Earth Day became an experience to millions. In fact, the first Earth Day saw 20 million Americans participate in demonstrations to raise awareness of the impact of industrial development.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency was created at the end of 1970, inspired by Earth Day. The day allowed us to see environmental issues like the National Environmental Education Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, and the Clean Air Act. Two years later, the Clean Water Act was passed.

The 50th anniversary of Earth Day was in 2020, and the movement is still going strong. People continue to participate by recycling, planting trees, picking up trash, or spreading the word on how to help the Earth.
