Decline of the Steller Sea Lion in Alaskan Waters National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Polar Research Board,Ocean Studies Board,Committee on the Alaska Groundfish Fishery and Steller Sea Lions,2003-05-04 For an unknown reason the Steller sea lion population in Alaska has declined by 80% over the past three decades In 2001 the National Research Council began a study to assess the many hypotheses proposed to explain the sea lion decline including insufficient food due to fishing or the late 1970s climate regime shift a disease epidemic pollution illegal shooting subsistence harvest and predation by killer whales or sharks The report's analysis indicates that the population decline cannot be explained only by a decreased availability of food hence other factors such as predation and illegal shooting deserve further study The report recommends a management strategy that could help determine the impact of fisheries on sea lion survival establishing open and closed fishing areas around sea lion rookeries This strategy would allow researchers to study sea lions in relatively controlled contrasting environments Experimental area closures will help fill some short term data gaps but long term monitoring will be required to understand why sea lions are at a fraction of their former abundance      North Pacific Fisheries Problems United States. In 1869 John Wesley Powell led a small party down the Green and Colorado Rivers in a bold attempt to explore the Grand Canyon for the first time After their monumental expedition they told of raging rapids constant danger and breathtaking natural beauty of the American landscape at its most pristine Jon Waterman combines sheer adventure and environmental calamity in this trailblazing cautionary account of his 2008 trip down the overtaxed drying Colorado Dammed and tunneled forced into countless canals trapped in reservoirs and harnessed for electricity what once was untamed and free is now humbled parched and so yoked to human purposes that in most years it trickles away 100 miles from its oceanic destination Waterman writes with informal immediacy in this eye witness account of the many demands on the Colorado from irrigating 3 5 million acres of farmland to watering the lawns of Los Angeles He shows how our profligacy and inexorable climate change spark political conflict and how we can avert this onrushing ecological crisis As he follows Powell afloat and afoot Waterman reaches out both to adventure travelers and to scientists conservationists environmentalists and anyone interested in the fragile interplay between nature and humans Fritz Marti Judith Baumrin,2015-09-16 Fritz Marti 1894 1991 came from Switzerland where he had completed his doctorate in philosophy to The University of Oregon Eugene in 1923 He was a serious committed scholar in the tradition of German Idealism The book is about his search for intellectual freedom in America He was part of the evolution of higher education in the United States in the 20th Century and taught at colleges and universities across the country such as Oregon Goucher Maryland Chicago and Notre Dame He became passionate about the role of a college education In 1947 he and his wife Gertrude Austin established a college preparatory school within a farm home community in the hills of southern Ohio It exists today as The Miami Valley School in Dayton Ohio This is the story of his encounter with and adaptation to America and a look at American academic life during the early Twentieth Century
