From Mythic to Linear Maria Nikolajeva, 2000 Nikolajeva examines the depiction of time in literature for children identifying a continuum of texts ranging from those that depict non linear time typical of archaic or mythical thought to those that express linearity typical of contemporary mainstream literature She argues that literature is a deconstruction a displacement of myth and that it depicts a symbolic coming of age process rather than a strictly representational reflection of a concrete reality The texts are categorized by the degree to which the coming of age process is accomplished the movement is from an initial condition of primary harmony Arcadia Paradise Utopia through different stages toward either a successful or a failed passage This study encompasses a number of children s novels from different epochs and countries Scandinavian British American Canadian Australian South African and East European

From Mythic to Linear Maria Nikolajeva, 1991-01-01 Now available in paperback In this radically new approach to text typology Maria Nikolajeva examines the depiction of time in literature for children Nikolajeva identifies a continuum of texts ranging from those that depict non linear time typical of archaic or mythical thought to those that express linearity typical of contemporary mainstream literature The author argues that literature is a deconstruction a displacement of myth and that it depicts a symbolic coming of age process rather than a strictly representational reflection of a concrete reality The texts are categorized by the degree to which the coming of age process is accomplished the movement is from an initial condition of primary harmony Arcadia Paradise Utopia through different stages toward either a successful or a failed passage From Mythic to Linear is a broad study encompassing a number of children s novels from different epochs and countries Scandinavian British American Canadian Australian South African and East European The international character contributes a better knowledge of children s literature from different parts of the world widening the horizons of children s literature research too often confined to one particular country Nikolajeva s unique approach allows her to disregard the traditional and some would argue obsolete division of children s novels into realism and fantasy With its unique approach and broad international scope From Mythic to Linear will be of interest to all those interested in children s literature and in comparative literature in general Includes bibliography and footnotes for young readers evoke two quite separate sets of concerns which are not always mutually compatible The first half of Representing the Holocaust focuses on how literary material can present historically verifiable material The second half examines how such materials will be perceived by young readers whether they will be able to determine any boundaries between fictionality and factuality and what motivates young readers to keep reading The work concludes by placing the study in the context of Holocaust education Philosophy in Children's Literature Peter R. Costello, 2012-01-01 This book seeks to join the ongoing interdisciplinary approach to children's literature by means of sustained readings of individual texts by means of important works in the history of philosophy Its inclusion of authors from both various departments philosophy literature religion and education and various countries is an attempt to show how traditional boundaries between disciplines might become more permeable and how philosophy offers important insights to this interdisciplinary critical conversation

Claudia Nelson, Anne Morey, 2019-10-24 Beginning with Rudyard Kipling and Edith Nesbit and concluding with best selling series still ongoing at the time of writing this volume examines works of twentieth and twenty first century children's literature that incorporate character types settings and narratives derived from the Greco Roman past Drawing on a cognitive poetics approach to reception studies it argues that authors typically employ a limited and powerful set of spatial metaphors palimpsest map and fractal to organize the classical past for preteen and adolescent readers

Palimpsest texts see the past as a collection of strata in which each new era forms a layer superimposed upon a foundation laid earlier map texts use the metaphor of the mappable journey to represent a protagonist's process of maturing while gaining knowledge of the self and or the world fractal texts in which small parts of the narrative are thematically identical to the whole present the past in a way that implies that history is infinitely repeatable While a given text may embrace multiple metaphors in presenting the past associations between dominant metaphors genre and outlook emerge from the case studies examined in each chapter revealing remarkable thematic continuities in how the past is represented and how agency is attributed to protagonists each model it is suggested uses the classical past to urge and thus perhaps to develop a particular approach to life
