Pauline Johnson,1913 Flint and Feather E. Pauline Johnson,2008-06-01 This scarce antiquarian book is a facsimile reprint of the original Due to its age it may contain imperfections such as marks notations marginalia and flawed pages Because we believe this work is culturally important we have made it available as part of our commitment for protecting preserving and promoting the world s literature in affordable high quality modern editions that are true to the original work Flint and Feather Emily Pauline Johnson,2011 Excerpt his kisses are And in this landward lying shade we let our paddles rest The river deep and still The maple mantled hill The little yellow beach whereon we lie The puffs of heated breeze All sweetly whisper These Are days that only come in a Canadian July So silently we two Lounge in our still canoe Nor fate nor fortune matters to us now So long as we alone May call this dream our own The breeze may die the sail may droop we care not when or how Against the thwart near by Inactively you lie And all too near my arm your temple bends Your indolently crude Abandoned attitude Is one of ease and art in which a perfect languor blends Your costume loose and light Leaves unconcealed your might Of muscle half suspected half defined And falling well aside Your vesture opens wide Above your splendid sunburnt throat that pulses unconfined With easy unreserve Across the gunwale s curve Your arm superb is lying brown and bare Your hand just touches mine With import firm and fine I kiss the very wind that blows about your tumbled hair Ah Dear I am unwise In echoing your eyes Whene er they leave their far off gaze and turn To melt and blur my sight For every other light Is servile to your cloud grey eyes wherein cloud shadows burn But once the silence breaks But once your ardour wakes To words that humanize this lotus land So perfect and complete Those burning words and sweet So perfect is the single kiss your lips lay on my hand The paddles lie disused The fitful breeze abused Has dropped to slumber with no after blow And hearts will pay the cost For you and I have lost More than the homeward blowing wind that died an hour ago AT SUNSET To night the west o er brims with warmest dyes Its chalice overflows With pools of purple colouring the skies Aflood with gold and rose And some hot soul seems throbbing close to mine As sinks the sun within that world of wine I seem to hear a bar of music float And Flint and Feather [microform] E Pauline 1861-1913 Johnson,2021-09-09 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public To ensure a quality reading experience this work has been proofread and republished using a format that seamlessly blends the original graphical elements with text in an easy to read typeface We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Flint and Feather E. Pauline Johnson,1967 Flint and Feather Emily Pauline Johnson,1972 Flint and Feather E. Pauline Johnson,2017-10-09 I cannot say how deeply it touched me to learn that Pauline Johnson expressed a wish on her death bed that I living here in the mother country all these miles away should write something about her I was not altogether surprised however for her letters to me had long ago shed a golden light upon her peculiar character She had made herself believe quite erroneously that she was largely indebted to me for her success in the literary world The letters I had from her glowed with this noble passion the delusion about her indebtedness to me in spite of all I could say never left her She continued to foster and cherish this delusion Gratitude indeed was with her not a sentiment merely as with most of us but a veritable passion And when we consider how rare a human trait true gratitude is the one particular characteristic in which the lower animals put us to shame it can easily be imagined how I was touched to find that this beautiful and grand Canadian girl remained down to the very last moment of her life the impersonation of that most precious of all virtues I have seen much of my fellow men and women and I never knew but two other people who displayed gratitude as a passion indulged in it I might say as a luxury and they were both poets I can give no higher praise to the irritable genus On this account Pauline Johnson will always figure in my memory as one of the noblest minded of the human race Flint and Feather E. Pauline Johnson,2012-01 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy Flint and Feather E. Pauline Johnson,2014-02 This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923 This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc that were either part of the original artifact or were introduced by the scanning process We believe this work is culturally important and despite the imperfections have elected to bring it back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide We appreciate your understanding of the imperfections in the preservation process and hope you enjoy this valuable book Flint and Feather (Classic Reprint) how deeply it touched me to learn that Pauline Johnson expressed a wish on her death bed that I living here in the mother country all these miles away should write something about her I was not altogether surprised however for her letters to me had long ago shed a golden light upon her peculiar character She had made herself believe quite erroneously that she was largely indebted to me for her success in the literary world The letters I had from her glowed with this noble passion the delusion about her indebtedness to me in spite of all I could say never left her She continued to foster and cherish this delusion Gratitude indeed was with her not a sentiment merely as with most of us but veritable passion And when we consider how rare a human trait true gratitude is the one particular characteristic in which the lower animals put us to shame it can easily be imagined how I was touched to find that this beautiful and grand Canadian girl remained down to the very last moment of her life the impersonation of that most precious of all virtues About the Publisher Forgotten Books
