Flowers Of The Pacific Island Seashore:

Flowers of the Pacific Island Seashore W. Arthur Whistler, 1992 The dream of becoming a beachcomber on some distant tropical shore has always held a particular fascination for Westerners To be able to spend one's day relaxing under a tropical sun and walking a palm covered beach bordering a blue lagoon has seemed like the ideal escape from the everyday pressures of the hurried lifestyle of our Western world Ever since its European discovery Polynesia has captivated the imagination of adventurers looking for an island paradise Now with the age of jet travel a visit to the islands is no longer an impossible dream Every year thousands of people fly to the South Pacific to spend their vacation in the tropical sun One of the most remarkable features of Polynesia is the vast array of exotic flowers to be found growing everywhere in profusion For those who are interested in nature the easiest way to identify these exotic species is by using an illustrated book on tropical flowers There are already a number of such books available but most of these deal only with cultivated ornamental plants such as hibiscus frangipani and jasmine These are well suited to those who do not go beyond the confines of their hotel or local tourist attractions But it is for those who seek out nature away from the hotels away from the tourist attractions or even away from civilization that this book is intended Vegetation of the Tropical Pacific Islands Dieter Mueller-Dombois, F.R. This book contains updated reviewed versions of some selected papers on Sea Level Changes and their Effects presented at the International Ocean and Atmosphere Pacific Conference OAP 95 held in Adelaide South Australia 23-27 October 1995. In addition several reviewed articles on important topics not covered by the papers presented at OAP 95 were invited. The articles in this volume will find an audience among coastal developers, marine biologists and environmentalists. They cover a range of topics including the efforts of long term sea level rise on coastal flows and its impact on mangrove communities, the determination of long term sea level change relative to the vertical motion of the land, to the numerical modelling of short term sea level changes due to tides, tsunamis and the weather.

Traditional Trees of Pacific Islands Craig R. Elevitch, 2006. This book is for the person who lives in the tropics or subtropics and is interested in native plants, who wants to know about plants that are useful, who loves to watch plants grow and who is willing to work with them. Such a person might ask questions like: Where will they grow? How do I grow them? Are they good to eat? How are they used? What are their names? These questions and more are answered here. Preface.

Tonga Martin Daly, 2009-02-04. Praise for the first edition: Tonga is unique among bibliographies in its perception and understanding and in its affection for Tonga and its people. Daly's work stands on exceptionally sound foundations. His summaries are excellent indeed, but Daly writes always with the authority of first-hand knowledge, with a keen eye for the essential and the ability to interpret and clarify obscurities. A trustworthy introduction to Tonga in all its diversity, a splendid point-de-part for all layman or scholar needing a reliable guide to the essential literature about this remarkable Polynesian kingdom. Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies. The book is so arranged that it is easy to locate any of the items listed. I found myself spending pleasant hours perusing Daly's comments on the different publications. I hope the rumor of a second revised edition of this bibliography is true. Journal of the Polynesian Society. Tonga is a fascinating and subtle combination of a traditional Polynesian kingdom, the only one to survive the impact of colonization in the nineteenth century and remain independent, and a thoroughly Christian country. This comprehensive bibliography is a selective guide to the most significant and accessible English language books, papers, and articles on every aspect of the kingdom's history, culture, arts, politics, environment, and economy. It is a much updated and expanded edition of the original version that was published in 1999 as part of the World Bibliographical Series with the addition of more than 200 new entries. Each of the approximately 600 described and annotated items is organized under broad subject headings and indexed by author, title, and subject. In addition and new to this edition, all known Ph.D. theses, although not annotated, are shown within their appropriate subject categories and indexed. Also new is a section on the most important Tonga-related websites. A general introduction describes the Tongan kingdom, its history, and society, and its current situation. Tonga: A New Bibliography will be an invaluable resource for anyone with a serious interest in Tonga and an indispensable volume for academic libraries, reference collections, and policy makers focused on the Pacific islands.

Altered Ecologies Simon Haberle, Janelle Stevenson, Matthew Prebble, 2010-11-01. Like a star chart, this volume orientates the reader to the key issues and debates in Pacific and Australasian biogeography, palaeoecology, and human ecology. A feature of this collection is the diversity of approaches, ranging from interpretation of the biogeographic significance of plant and animal distributional patterns, pollen analysis from peats and lake sediments, to discern Quaternary climate change, explanation of the patterns of faunal extinction events, the interplay of fire on landscape evolution, and models of the environmental consequences of human settlement patterns. The diversity of approaches, geographic scope, and academic rigor are a fitting tribute to the enormous contributions of Geoff Hope. As made apparent in this volume, Hope pioneered multidisciplinary understanding of the history and impacts of human cultures in the Australia-Pacific region; arguably, the globe's premier model systems for understanding the consequences of human colonization on ecological systems. The distinguished scholars who have contributed to this volume also demonstrate Hope's enduring contribution as an inspirational research leader, collaborator, and mentor. Terra Australis leaves no doubt that history matters, not only for land management but more importantly in alerting settler and indigenous societies alike to their past ecological impacts and future environmental trajectories. Pacific Islands Forests & Trees, 1992.
