American Photo ,2006-09 The Lost Hollywood Collection Featuring Photos from the Culver Picture Service Files, Auction Catalog #363 Ivy Press,2006-06 From a Photograph Geoffrey Belknap,2020-08-13 Throughout its early history photography s authenticity was contested and challenged how true a representation of reality can a photograph provide Does the reproduction of a photograph affect its value as authentic or not From a Photograph examines these questions in the light of the early scientific periodical press exploring how the perceived veracity of a photograph its use as scientific evidence and the technologies developed for printing it were intimately connected Before photomechanical printing processes became widely used in the 1890s scientific periodicals were unable to reproduce photographs and instead included these photographic images as engravings with the label from a photograph Consequently every image was mediated by a human interlocutor introducing the potential for error and misinterpretation Rather than reading photographs in the context of where or how they were taken this book emphasises the importance of understanding how photographs are reproduced It explores and compares the value of photography as authentic proof in both popular and scientific publications during this period of significant technological developments and a growing readership Three case studies investigate different uses of photography in print using pigeons to transport microphotographs during the Franco Prussian War the debate surrounding the development of instantaneous photography and finally the photographs taken of the Transit of Venus in 1874 unseen by the human eye but captured on camera and made accessible to the public through the periodical Addressing a largely overlooked area of photographic history From a Photograph makes an important contribution to this interdisciplinary research and will be of interest to historians of photography print culture and science World-Famous Pictures Oscar W. Comics, Trauma, and the New Art of War Harriet E. H. Earle, 2017-06-19 Conflict and trauma remain among the most prevalent themes in film and literature. Comics has never avoided such narratives and comics artists are writing them in ways that are both different from and complementary to literature and film. In Comics Trauma and the New Art of War Harriet E. H. Earle brings together two distinct areas of research: trauma studies and comics studies to provide a new interpretation of a long-standing theme. Focusing on representations of conflict in American comics after the Vietnam War, Earle claims that the comics form is uniquely able to show traumatic experience by representing events as viscerally as possible. Using texts from across the form and placing mainstream superhero comics alongside alternative and art comics, Earle suggests that comics are the ideal artistic representation of trauma. Because comics bridge the gap between the visual and the written, they represent such complicated narratives as loss and trauma in unique ways, particularly through the manipulation of time and experience. Comics can fold time and confront traumatic events, be they personal or shared, through a myriad of both literary and visual devices. As a result, comics can represent trauma in ways that are unavailable to other narrative and artistic forms. With themes such as dreams and mourning, Earle concentrates on trauma in American comics after the Vietnam War. Examples include Alissa Torres's American Widow, Doug Murray's The Nam, and Art Spiegelman's much-lauded Maus. These works pair with ideas from a wide range of thinkers, including Sigmund Freud, Mikhail Bakhtin, and Fredric Jameson, as well as contemporary trauma theory and clinical psychology. Through these examples and others, Comics Trauma and the New Art of War proves that comics open up new avenues to explore personal and public trauma in extraordinary, necessary ways.

Performing Trauma in Central Africa Laura Edmondson, 2018-03-26 What are the stakes of cultural production in a time of war? How is artistic expression prone to manipulation by the state and international humanitarian organizations In the charged political terrain of post genocide Rwanda post civil war Uganda and recent violence in the Democratic Republic of Congo Laura Edmondson explores performance through the lens of empire Instead of celebrating theatre productions as expression of cultural agency and resilience Edmondson traces their humanitarian imperatives to a place where global narratives of violence take precedence over local traditions and audiences Working at the intersection of performance and trauma Edmondson reveals how artists and cultural workers manipulate narratives in the shadow of empire and how empire in turn infiltrates creative capacities

Civil War Sites: Past and Present Pasquale De Marco, 2025-05-02. Civil War Sites: Past and Present is a journey to some of the most iconic Civil War sites in the United States. From the battlefields of Gettysburg and Vicksburg to the historic buildings of Washington D.C. and Atlanta, this book tells the story of the Civil War through the places where it was fought and the people who fought in it. This book is not a traditional history of the Civil War. It does not focus on the military campaigns or the political debates that led to the war. Instead, it focuses on the human side of the war.
