El paisaje del valle del Asón (Cantabria) a finales del Tardiglacial Alejandro García Moreno, 2015 RESUMEN El final del Pleistoceno en la Región Cantábrica norte de la Península Ibérica es testigo de una serie de importantes transformaciones ambientales sociales y culturales Desde el punto de vista climático y ambiental el Tardiglacial se caracteriza por una gran inestabilidad y supone a grandes rasgos el fin de unas condiciones glaciares y la transición a otras más templadas y húmedas Esto conlleva el desarrollo de masas forestales caducifolias principalmente de robledales y bosques mixtos atlánticos que van desplazando los bosques de pinos dominantes durante el Würm La progresiva sustitución de bosques de coníferas por otros caducifolios pudo haber influido en los cambios económicos y la organización social de las sociedades del final del Paleolítico En este trabajo se analizan los cambios en el paisaje del valle del río Asón Cantabria a lo largo del Tardiglacial Para ello se ha desarrollado mediante el empleo de un Sistema de Información Geográfica SIG un modelo predictivo de distribución potencial de la vegetación arbórea Este modelo basado en los requerimientos ecológicos de las principales taxas arbóreas identificados en los diagramas polínicos de la región estima las áreas donde mayor probabilidad de desarrollo tendrá cada especie Los resultados obtenidos permiten comprobar un importante cambio en la distribución espacial de las principales masas forestales a lo largo del Tardiglacial y del Holoceno inicial Este cambio en el paisaje y por lo tanto en la distribución de los recursos asociados a los bosques caducifolios pudo haber influido en los cambios observados en las estrategias de subsistencia y los patrones de asentamiento de los grupos de cazadores y recolectores del Magdaleniense Superior y el Aziliense ABSTRACT The end of the Pleistocene in the Cantabrian Region northern Iberia witnesses a series of major environmental social and cultural changes From a climatic and environmental point of view the Lateglacial is characterized by a high instability and broadly means the transition from glacial to warmer and milder conditions This transition implies the development of deciduous forests mainly oakwoods and Atlantic mixed forests which displaced the pine forests dominant during the Würm glaciation The continual substitution of conifers by deciduous forests might have had an influence on the changes in the economy and the social organization of Late Palaeolithic societies In this work changes in the landscape of the Asón river valley Cantabria during the Lateglacial are analysed To do this a GIS based predictive model for the potential distribution of tree vegetation was developed This model based on the ecological requirements of the main taxa identified in pollen diagrams from the region estimates the areas where each species could have had higher probabilities to develop The results obtained allow verifying an important change in the spatial distribution of the main forest types during the Lateglacial and the early Holocene This change in the landscape and therefore in the distribution of the resources related to deciduous forests might have had an influence on the changes observed in the subsistence strategies and the settlement patterns of Upper Magdalenian and Azilian hunter and gatherer communities AV monografías ,2008 The Soils of Spain Juan F. Gallardo, 2015-09-23 This book provides the reader with a comprehensive overview of the soils of Spain gathered by a variety of Spanish experts in the field It presents soils in this country as particularly conditioned by the naturally diverse and drastic distribution of the Spanish landscape characterized by mountainous ranges in the North and arid areas in the South and the East The first chapter sets the agricultural scenario in Spain as influenced by the Arabic culture and American agricultural products the second chapter provides a classification and distribution of Spanish soils the third chapter approaches the topic of soils in the characteristically humid Northern Iberia area as prone to diversity and soil evolution the fourth focuses on the soils of the South and East of Spain as affected by lack of rainfall and abundance in calcic soil horizons the fifth chapter deals with Mediterranean soils having as a particular characteristic the dominance of red colors and the last chapter discusses the challenges and future issues of Spanish soils
