Fantasy and Feeling in Education Richard Matthew Jones, 1968 FANTASY AND FEELING IN EDUCATION. BY RICHARD MATTHEW JONES. Richard Matthew Jones, 1968 Fantasy and Feeling in Education Richard Matthew Jones, 1968 Fantasy and Feeling in Education, By Richard M. Jones Richard Matthew Jones, 1970 Fantasy and Feeling in Education Richard M. Jones, 1972 Fantasy and Feeling in Education , 1968 Schools and Screens Victoria Cain, 2024-02-06

Why screens in schools from film screenings to instructional television to personal computers did not bring about the educational revolution promised by reformers Long before Chromebook giveaways and remote learning screen media technologies were enthusiastically promoted by American education reformers Again and again as schools deployed film screenings television programs and computer games screen based learning was touted as a cure for all educational ills But the transformation promised by advocates for screens in schools never happened In this book Victoria Cain chronicles important episodes in the history of educational technology as reformers technocrats public television producers and computer scientists tried to harness the power of screen based media to shape successive generations of students Cain describes how beginning in the 1930s champions of educational technology saw screens in schools as essential tools for training citizens and presented films to that end Among the films screened for educational purposes was the notoriously racist Birth of a Nation In the 1950s and 1960s both technocrats and leftist educators turned to screens to prepare young Americans for Cold War citizenship and from the 1970s through the 1990s as commercial television and personal computers arrived in classrooms screens in schools represented an increasingly privatized vision of schooling and civic engagement Cain argues that the story of screens in schools is not simply about efforts to develop the right technological tools rather it reflects ongoing tensions over citizenship racial politics private funding and distrust of teachers Ultimately she shows that the technologies that reformers had envisioned as improving education and training students in civic participation in fact deepened educational inequities

Fantasy and feeling in education by Richard M Jones Richard M. Jones, 1972 General Education in the Social Sciences John J. MacAloon, 1992-06

Higher education s most vibrant and contentious issues common and specialized learning in the curriculum conceptions of general and liberal education the design of common core sequences the merits of classic texts and contemporary research Western and non Western course materials the place of undergraduate teaching in scholarly careers have for decades been debated by the faculty of the College of the University of Chicago At the College they have become embodied in educational programs of sufficient historical depth to reveal patterns of intellectual and pedagogical continuity amidst changing social and institutional circumstances Social Science 2 holds the place of honor among these educational projects For more than half a century Soc 2 has been one of the most influential courses in American undergraduate education This unique year long course the oldest and most distinguished of its kind at any American university has served as an ongoing experiment in how the social sciences can be taught and learned in the general education context In this collection John MacAloon has gathered essays by fourteen eminent social scientists such as David Riesman Michael Schudson and F Champion Ward who as either teachers or students were profoundly shaped by Soc 2 Their multifarious and selective memories full of dissonances and harmonies of recollection judgment and voice create a compelling biography of a course and a college that have survived tumultuous change through sustained and committed argument This book will be of great interest to anyone interested not only in the theory but the practice of higher education Education and the Fantasies of Neoliberalism Matthew Clarke,2021-11-29 Education and the Fantasies of Neoliberalism revitalizes conversations about the nature and purpose of education in a global context characterized by concerns about quality and equity in education reflecting wider economic and political anxieties around declining productivity and social inclusion The book illustrates how Lacanian psychoanalytic theory offers a conceptual vocabulary for exposing and critiquing the fantasmatic nature of policy and practice while foregrounding the tensions and contradictions they seek to conceal Specifically the book draws on ideas of lack fantasy and desire from Lacanian psychoanalytic theory to gain insights into the contentious but disavowed politics of reform in education The book builds on cutting edge work in political and psychoanalytic theory to offer unique insights that challenge and contest the simplistic and often trivializing readings of education in contemporary media and political debates Offering a novel perspective on education policy reform this book will be of great interest to academics researchers and post graduate students in the fields of philosophy of education and educational policy and politics Traversing the Fantasy Sandra Meiri,Odeya Kohen-Raz,2020-02-06 Traversing the Fantasy The Dialectic of Desire Fantasy proposes a new and comprehensive model of spectatorship at the heart of which it draws an analogy between the ethics of Lacanian psychoanalysis and the ethics of narrative film It demonstrates how spectators engage with narrative film undergoing unconscious processes that generate a shift in the adherence to fantasies that impede assuming responsibility for one s fate and well being The authors discuss the affinities that the ontology and aesthetics of narrative film share with subjective unconscious processes offering new insights into the popular appeal of narrative film through three film corpora analyzed at length body character breach films dreaming character films and gender crossing films With a range of case studies from the old Rebecca Vertigo Some Like it Hot to the new Being John Malkovich A Fantastic Woman Sandra Meiri and Odeya Kohen Raz build on psychoanalytic ideas about the cinema and take them in a completely new direction that promises to be the basis for further developments in the field Four Psychologies Applied to Education: Freudian, Behavioral, Humanistic, Transpersonal Thomas B. Roberts,1975 The Psychology of Teaching W. Lambert Gardiner,1980 The Collected Clinical Works of Alfred Adler: Education for prevention Alfred Adler,2002 Human Relations in Education Carol Hall,Eric Hall,2003-12-16 As a teacher how can I increase my personal effectiveness and how can I improve the quality of relationships in the classroom These are the two fundamental questions which Human Relations in Education sets out to answer in a way that will appeal to all those concerned with education Eric and Carol Hall examine issues such as self concept social and emotional learning the dynamics of the staffroom and the classroom as well as stress management and relaxation They demonstrate how these affect human relations in schools and colleges Interpersonal communications and counselling skills are then examined in terms of language imagery and non verbal communication With its original blend of theory and practical exercises Human Relations in Education is essential reading for both experienced teachers and teachers in training

Vittorio Benussi in the History of Psychology Mauro Antonelli,2019-01-04 This book covers the basic guidelines of Vittorio Benussi s research during the period at Graz and at Padua It does so in the light of a thorough study of his Nachlass The book re evaluates Benussi s work as a historical piece and shows how his work is still relevant today especially in the areas of cognitive psychology and cognitive science The volume deals with this original and ingenious though largely ignored scholar and discusses his work as a leading experimental psychologist Benussi s contributions as discussed in this book were particularly relevant in the fields of visual and tactile perception time perception forensic psychology hypnosis and suggestion unconscious and emotions His classical papers are impressive in their originality energy range of approaches experimental skill the wealth of findings and the quality of theoretical discussions This book demonstrates that Benussi was ahead of his time and that his themes experiments and research programmes are highly relevant to contemporary cognitive psychology

Scripted Fantasy in the Classroom Eric Hall,Alison Leech,2005-09-26 Many teachers have tried simple relaxation techniques in their classrooms and been surprised by their success This step by step guide to the technique of scripted fantasy shows how the forces of the imagination can be harnessed to improve the social skills and classroom performance of students of all ages and all abilities It provides sample scripts to get the teacher started and gives advice on classroom management and on processing the fantasy experience without compromising students privacy

The Force of Fantasy Ernest G. Bormann,2001 In this book first published in 1985 Ernest G Bormann explores mass persuasion in America from 1620 to 1860 examining closely four rhetorical communities the revivals of 1739 1740 the hot gospel of the postrevolutionary period the evangelical revival and reform of the 1830s and the Free Soil and Republican parties Each community varies greatly but Bormann asserts that each succeeding community shares a rhetorical vision of restoring the American Dream that is essentially a modification of the previous visions Thus they form a family of rhetorical visions that constitutes a rhetorical tradition of importance in nineteenth century American popular culture
