The Far Horizon Lucas Malet, 1906 1906 Lucas Malet was the pen name of English novelist Mrs Mary St Leger Harrison The author's first novel since The History of Sir Richard Calmady It begins Dominic Iglesias stood watching while the lingering June twilight darkened into night He was tired in body but his mind was eminently consciously awake to the point of restlessness and this was unusual with him He had raised the lower sash of each of the three tall narrow windows to its extreme height since the first floor sitting room though of fair proportions appeared close His thought refused the limits of it and ranged outward over the expanse of Trimmer's Green the roadway and houses bordering it to the far northwest that region of hurried storm of fierce equinoctial passion and conflict now paved with plaques of flat dingy violet cloud opening on smoky rose red wastes of London sunset All day thunder had threatened but had not broken And even yet the face of heaven seemed less peaceful than remonstrant a sullenness holding it as of troops in retreat denied satisfaction of imminent battle such as delayed choice experiments the brain's perception of time during saccadic masking and more and suggests that these phenomena can only exist because they ultimately obey applicable mathematics thereby agreeing with a modern view that the universe and everything within it including the mind are ultimately mathematical structures It delves into how a number of conundrums such as the weak Anthropic Principle could be resolved and how such resolutions could be tested experimentally All its various threads converge towards a same new vision of the ultimate essence of time seen as a side effect from a deeper reality
