Academic Discourse and Critical Consciousness Patricia Bizzell, 1992-12-18 This collection of essays traces the attempts of one writing teacher to understand theoretically and to respond pedagogically to what happens when students from diverse backgrounds learn to use language in college Bizzell begins from the assumption that democratic education requires us to attempt to educate all students including those whose social or ethnic backgrounds may have offered them little experience with academic discourse Over the ten year period chronicled in these essays she has seen herself primarily as an advocate for such students sometimes called basic writers Bizzell's views on education for critical consciousness widely discussed in the writing field are represented in most of the essays in this volume But in the last few chapters and in the intellectual autobiography written as the introduction to the volume she calls her previous work into question on the grounds that her self appointment as an advocate for basic writers may have been presumptuous and her hopes for the politically liberating effects of academic discourse misplaced She concludes by calling for a theory of discourse that acknowledges the need to argue for values and pedagogy that can assist these arguments to proceed more inclusively than ever before The essays in this volume constitute the main body of work in which Bizzell developed her influential and often cited ideas Organized chronologically they present a picture of how she has grappled with major issues in composition studies over the past decade In the process she sketches a trajectory for the development of composition studies as an academic discipline Critical Consciousness and Adult Education Arthur Selden Lloyd, 1974 Education for Critical Consciousness Katherine
