The Routledge Companion to Planning in the Global South Gautam Bhan, Smita Srinivas, Vanessa Watson, 2017-09-11 The Routledge Companion to Planning in the Global South offers an edited collection on planning in parts of the world which more often than not are unrecognised or unmarked in mainstream planning texts In doing so its intention is not to fill a gap that leaves this mainstream unquestioned but to re theorise planning from a deep understanding of place as well as a commitment to recognise the diverse modes of practice that come within it The chapters thus take the form not of generalised universal analyses and prescriptions but instead are critical and located reflections in thinking about how to plan act and intervene in highly complex city regional and national contexts Chapter authors in this Companion are not all planners or are planners of very different kinds and this diversity ensures a rich variety of insights primarily based on cases to emphasise the complexity of the world in which planning is expected to happen The book is divided into a framing Introduction followed by five sections planning and the state economy and economic actors new drivers of urban change landscapes of citizenship and planning respective private health sectors and how the engagement compares across the region While the approach taken by governments varies greatly between countries there is much room for improvement in the Africa region overall to engage more effectively and room for exchange of ideas and good practices on how to do so Improved solutions on the policy regulatory side should be supported by effective organization of the private sector itself and by adjustments in donor programs that take the dynamics of the private health sector better into account
