

VARIATIONS IN HEALTH PERSPECTIVES AND PRIORITIES ACCORDING TO AGE, CULTURE, RELIGION, GENDER & SES.

Culture

- Different cultures have different views and perspectives on health and wellbeing. Western cultures, such as Australia generally view health & wellbeing within the context of professional medical practices. Some cultures such as traditional Vietnamese believe ill health is a result of supernatural context and promote prayer and cultural intervention.
- In many Asian cultures, decisions about health and wellbeing are made by the eldest male member of the family. In some cultures individuals are unable to discuss mental disorders let alone accept assistance from health professionals due to shame and failure.
- Many Australians are trying Chinese medicine these days to assist with healing.
