Young People, Citizenship and Political Participation Mark Chou,Jean-Paul Gagnon,Catherine Hartung,Lesley J. Pruitt,2017-03-17 Prominent studies and opinion polls often claim that young people are disengaged from political institutions distrustful of politicians and disillusioned about democracy Young People Citizenship and Political Participation challenges these political stereotypes by asking whether young people have been contributing to or rectifying our civic deficit In particular it examines the role of civics education in addressing the so called crisis of democracy Turning away from conventional suggestions often advocated by politicians and educators that offer civics education as the solution the book advances an alternate approach to civics one that acknowledges the increasingly diverse ways in which young people are both engaging and disengaging politically England's Citizenship Education Experiment Lee Jerome, 2012-11-02 How do we prepare young people to understand the complex problems confronting our society and their place as citizens in shaping solutions Until 1997 the contribution of schools to these challenges was ad hoc and uncoordinated but with the introduction of citizenship education into the National Curriculum in England a new political project began Between 2002 and 2012 England has become a leading player in the debate about how to induct young people into democracy Jerome explores the connections between the values promoted by the government and the forms of citizenship promoted through the National Curriculum and considers What did the politicians want the policy to achieve What kinds of citizens were teachers trying to create What kind of citizens do the young people feel that they have become To answer these questions this book considers a range of evidence from large scale national and international research projects to single school case studies conducted with student co researchers The study illustrates the complexity of policy making and reveals the gap between curriculum policy and implementation Responsibility and
