in Developing Countries Elizabeth M. King,M. Anne Hill,1997-07-01 Why do women in most developing countries lag behind men in literacy Why do women get less schooling than men This anthology examines the educational decisions that deprive women of an equal education It assembles the most up to date data organized by region Each paper links the data with other measures of economic and social development This approach helps explain the effects different levels of education have on womens fertility mortality rates life expectancy and income Also described are the effects of women s education on family welfare The authors look at family size and women s labor status and earnings They examine child and maternal health as well as investments in children s education Their investigation demonstrates that women with a better education enjoy greater economic growth and provide a more nurturing family life It suggests that when a country denies women an equal education the nation s welfare suffers Current strategies used to improve schooling for girls and women are examined in detail The authors suggest an ambitious agenda for educating women It seeks to close the gender gap by the next century Published for The World Bank by The Johns Hopkins University Press      The Journal of Developing Areas ,1985

Planning Education Reforms in Developing Countries Dennis A. Rondinelli,John Middleton,Adriaan Verspoor,1990 This work the first to apply contingency theory to education reform planning is particularly useful in that it has applications to planning both in developing countries and in the United States and Europe The basic approach applies to a wide variety of development programs and will influence project management and policy administration      The Progressive Education Fallacy in Developing Countries Gerard Guthrie,2011-06-23 This book provides a provocative but carefully argued addition to the theory and practice of education in developing countries The book provides an ethical and empirical justification for support of formalistic teaching in primary and secondary schools in developing countries It also refutes the application of progressive education principles to curriculum and pre and in service teacher education in such contexts The central focus of this book is the formalistic teaching prevalent in the classrooms of many developing countries Formalistic teacher centred traditional didactic pedagogic teaching is appropriate in the many countries with revelatory epistemologies unpopular and old fashioned though these methods may seem in some western especially Anglophone ones Formalism has been the object of many failed progressive curriculum and teacher education reforms in developing countries for some 50 years Education

Reform and the Learning Crisis in Developing Countries Prema Clarke, 2022-09-15 Over three decades ago international donors declared that there was a learning crisis in developing countries In the years since large investments have been made towards education yet there has been an apparent relative lack of progress in student learning This book unpicks this disparity and explores the implications of evidence based donor programming for quality education It undertakes an in depth analysis of the interventions financed by the main donors in primary education such as infrastructure development provision of instructional material teacher training and community mobilization and argues that the research undertaken during this period was unable to provide answers The author outlines an alternative model for evidence generation that can assist in the design of relevant and targeted interventions for learning to ultimately inform and improve future education programmes Timely and radical this book is essential reading for researchers and students in the fields of education research and education reform The Quality of Education in Developing Countries Clarence Edward

Beeby, 1966 Treatise on the quality of primary education in developing countries includes theoretic aspects an analysis of the concept of quality in education the functions of the economist and of the teacher in educational planning educational conservatism and its causes technical cooperation in education stages of development factors determining speed of progress and the use of new techniques including audiovisual aids and programmed instruction Education and International
