Social Stratification and Mobility in Central Veracruz Hugo G. Nutini, 2009-10-16 Since the Revolution of 1910 Mexican society has undergone a profound transformation characterized by the disempowerment of the landed aristocracy and the rise of a new ruling class of plutocrats and politicians the development of a middle class of white collar professionals and the upward mobility of formerly disenfranchised Indians who have become urban working class Mestizos Indeed Mexico's class system today increasingly resembles that of Western industrialized nations proving that while further democratic reforms are needed the Revolution initiated an ongoing process of change that has created a more egalitarian society in Mexico with greater opportunities for social advancement This authoritative ethnography examines the transformation of social classes in the Cordoba Orizaba region during the latter half of the twentieth century to create a model of provincial social stratification in Mexico Hugo Nutini focuses on the increased social mobility that has affected all classes of society especially the rural Indians who have taken advantage of education job opportunities and contact with the wider world to achieve Mestizo status He also traces the transfer of power that followed the demise of the hacienda system as well as the growing importance of the middle class This description and analysis of the provincial social stratification system complements the work Nutini has done on the national class system centered in Mexico City to offer a comprehensive picture of social stratification and mobility in Mexico today Social Work, Social Justice, and Human Rights Colleen

Dynamic Embodiment for Social Theory Brenda Farnell, 2012-02-27 This book presents a series of ontological investigations into an adequate theory of embodiment for the social sciences Informed by a new realist philosophy of causal powers it seeks to articulate a concept of dynamic embodiment one that positions human body movement and not just the body at the heart of theories of social action It draws together several lines of thinking in contemporary social science about the human body and its movements adequate meta theoretical explanations of agency and causality in human action relations between moving and talking skill and the formation of knowledge metaphor perception and the senses movement literacy the constitution of space and place and narrative performance This is an ontological inquiry that is richly grounded in and supported by anthropological ethnographic evidence

Using the work of Rom Harré, Roy Bhaskar, Charles Varela and Drid Williams this book applies causal powers theory to a revised ontology of personhood and discusses why the adequate location of human agency is crucial for the social sciences. The breakthrough lies in fact that new realism affords us an account of embodied human agency as a generative causal power that is grounded in our corporeal materiality thereby connecting natural physical and cultural worlds. Dynamic Embodiment for Social Theory is compelling reading for students and academics of the social sciences especially anthropologists and sociologists of the body and those interested in new developments in critical realism. Social Justice and Systemic Family Therapy Training Lindsey A. Nice, Christie Eppler, 2023-05-31 The book examines the lived experiences of systemic family therapy educators. It addresses the issues of power and justice that they face in family therapy training programs including their teaching experiences with students, interactions with faculty and challenges within academic institutions. It describes how family therapy programs attempt to incorporate cultural awareness with mixed results e.g. focusing only on how to work with diverse clients or not supporting faculty from across social locations. The book explores the ways in which family therapy educators with intersecting marginalized identities continue to be oppressed across different areas of academia. The book addresses issues of power that systemic family therapy educators face within the academia itself at three different levels: Personal interactions with students that create more complete understanding of issues of power; Professional interactions with colleagues that provide support and accountability; Political interventions aimed at changing the larger academic institution. Chapters focus on countering unjust practices in academic settings. Authors reflect on personal experiences across these three levels and then offer concrete suggestions for intervention. These include teaching experiences or meaningful interactions with students that support empowerment or increased awareness; relationships with colleagues that promote accountability and growth and needed changes or challenges to the larger structure of academia. Social Justice and Systemic Family Therapy Training is an essential resource for clinicians, therapists and practitioners as well as researchers, professors and graduate students in family studies, clinical psychology and public health as well as all interrelated disciplines. Environment and Social Theory John Barry, 1999 Covering the ideas of key theorists this text provides an introduction to the relationship between the environment and social theory both historically and within contemporary social theory. Preface to Social Economics John Clark, 2017-07-12 Economics both describes the way economic forces work and studies the efficiency or inefficiency that results. These two aspects of economics have probably never been wholly separated and it is debatable how far it is possible or desirable to separate them. The question will ultimately be answered by evaluating these different theoretical methods in terms of the results they deliver. The theory of economic efficiency uniquely incorporates problem of ideals of good conduct and welfare in short of morals and ethics. Preface to Social Economics presents thumbnail sketches describing the growth of our awareness of social problems over the past century. Beginning in the nineteenth century the sciences both natural and social made us aware of many factors governing our behavior With the discovery of controllable external social causes the responsibility for problems and change shifted from the individual to the group Studies of industrial accidents are an example When it was learned that the number of injuries per hour increases with the length of the working day and with the absence of mechanical safeguards it led to a demand for shorter hours safety laws and compulsory accident insurance Similarly as we begin to understand the connection between the rate of interest with booms in building unemployment ceases to be a matter of individual responsibility and becomes a problem for business and society This classic book initially published in 1936 illumines a growing knowledge of controllable causes of social evils John Maurice Clark was a long time professor of economics at Columbia University The editors of this volume Moses Abramovitz and Eli Ginzberg were both students of Clark and prepared this volume under his direct supervision Social Science Knowledge and Economic Development Vernon W. Ruttan,2003 The central premise of this book is that the demand for social science knowledge is derived from the demand for institutional change pref
