Embracing Contraries Explorations In Learning And Teaching:

Embracing Contraries Peter Elbow, 1986 Peter Elbow's widely acclaimed and novel theories on the writing process set out in Writing without Teachers and Writing with Power have earned him the reputation of a leading innovator in the field. Now Elbow has drawn together twelve of his essays on the nature of learning and teaching which together form a comprehensive synthesis of his philosophy of education. At once theoretical and down to earth, this collection will appeal not only to teachers and students of education but to all those with a love of learning. What Elbow asks is natural in studying learning and teaching: What are our assumptions about how the mind ought to function in learning and teaching? Elbow explores the contraries in the educational process in particular his theory that clear thinking can be enhanced by inviting indecision, incoherence and paradoxical thinking. The essays written over a period of twenty-five years are engaged in a single enterprise to arrive at insights or conclusions about learning and teaching while still doing justice to the rich messiness of intellectual inquiry. Elbow discusses the value of interdisciplinary teaching, his theory of cooking as an interaction of conflicting ideas, the authority relationship in teaching and the value of specifying learning objectives. A full section is devoted to evaluation and feedback both of students and faculty. Finally, Elbow focuses on the need to move beyond the skepticism of critical thinking to what he calls methodological belief: an ability to embrace more than one point of view. About the Author: Peter Elbow is Director of the Writing Program at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. He has also taught at MIT, Franconia College, Evergreen State College and Wesleyan University. The famed innovator in writing instruction shares his philosophy of education. Handbook of Adult and Continuing Education Arthur L. Wilson, Elisabeth Hayes, 2009-04-27. Sponsored by the American Association of Adult Continuing Education. This monumental work is a testimony to the science of adult education and the skills of Wilson and Hayes. It is a veritable feast for nourishing our understanding of the current field of adult education. The editors and their well-chosen colleagues consistently question how we know and upon what grounds we act. They invite us to consider not only how we can design effective adult education but also why we practice in a particular socio-economic context. Jane Vella, author of Taking Learning to Task and Learning to Listen: Learning to Teach. This new handbook captures the exciting intellectual and professional development of our field in the last decade. It is an indispensable resource for faculty, students and professionals. Jack Mezirow, emeritus professor, Adult and Continuing Education Teachers College, Columbia University. For nearly seventy years the handbooks of adult and continuing education have been definitive references on the best practices, programs and institutions in the field. In this new edition over sixty leading authorities share their diverse perspectives in a single volume exploring a wealth of topics including learning from experience, adult learning for self-development, race and culture in adult learning, technology and distance learning, learning in the workplace, adult education for community action and development and much more. Much more than a catalogue of theory and historical facts, this handbook strongly reflects the values of adult educators and instructors who are dedicated to promoting social and educational opportunity for learners and to sustaining fair and ethical practices Challenging Ways Of Knowing Dave Baker, John Clay, Carol Fox, 2012-10-12 This work provides an analysis of how knowledge is constructed and defined by teachers and lecturers in schools and universities colleges It considers how everyday uses of reading writing numeracy and science are cast aside in favour of academic language and academic discourse arguing that such discourses are alien to learners daily experiences and are therefore difficult to acquire and adopt Chapters examine literacies of English mathematics and science as practised in and outside schools and colleges The book is interdisciplinary and multicultural adopting perspectives from the UK USA South Africa India Brazil and Kenya It should be of interest to a wide market of educationalists including those involved in educational policy making teacher education cultural multicultural studies development studies anthropology and adult and continuing education Enhancing Adult Motivation to Learn Raymond J. Changing the Way We Teach Sally Barr Ebest, 2005 Changing the Way We Teach Writing and Resistance in the Training of Teaching Assistants draws on eighteen case studies to illustrate the critical role writing plays in overcoming graduate student resistance to instruction facilitating change and developing professional identity Sally Barr Ebest argues that teaching assistants in English must be actively engaged in the theory and practice underlying composition pedagogy in order to better understand how to alter the way they teach and why such change is necessary In illustrating the potential for change when the paradigm shift in composition is applied to graduate education Ebest considers recent discussions of composition pedagogy post secondary teaching theories cognitive social cognitive and educational psychology and issues of gender voice and writing Stemming from research conducted over a five year period this volume explores how a cross section of teaching assistants responded to pedagogy as students and how their acceptance of pedagogy affected their performance as instructors Investigating reasons behind manifestations of resistance and necessary elements for overcoming it Ebest finds that engagement in composition strategies reflective writing journaling drafting and active learning and restoration of feelings of self efficacy are the primary factors that facilitate change Concerned with gender as it relates to personal construct Changing the Way We Teach traces the influence of familial expectations and the effects of literacy experiences on students and draws correlations between feminist and composition pedagogy Ebest asserts that the phenomena contributing to the development of a strong unified voice in women self knowledge empathy positive role models and mentors should be essential elements of a constructivist graduate curriculum To understand composition pedagogy and to convince students of its values Ebest holds that educators must embrace it themselves and trace the effects through active research By providing graduate students with pedagogical sites for research and reflection faculty enable them to express their anger or fear study its sources and quite often write their way to a new understanding

Clueless in Academe Gerald Graff, 2008-10-01

Gerald Graff argues that our schools and colleges make the intellectual life seem more opaque narrowly specialized and beyond normal learning capacities than it is or needs to be Left clueless in the academic world many students view the life of the mind as a secret society for which only an elite few qualify In a refreshing departure from standard diatribes against academia Graff shows how academic unintelligibility is unwittingly reinforced not only by academic jargon and obscure writing but by the disconnection of the curriculum and the failure to exploit the many connections between academia and popular culture Finally Graff offers a wealth of practical suggestions for making the culture of ideas and arguments more accessible to students showing how students can enter the public debates that permeate their lives
