The Eye in Clinical Practice Peggy Frith, 2008-04-15 The new edition of this highly successful book provides a concise and practical guide to eye disease for the non specialist avoiding jargon and giving clear guidance on the practical management of common eye complaints. Containing fully updated chapters it provides the GP and optometrist with everything they need to know to enable them to deal with eye problems in primary care. The early sections describe the scope and limitations of eye care in general practice including training equipment and tests for ophthalmic disorders. Later chapters describe systemic disorders with eye problems, eye trauma, surgery of the eye and the screening of asymptomatic patients. Appendices cover a formulary of ophthalmic practice, a list of suppliers, patient information and a glossary of terms. Update on Glaucoma Research: From Basic Science to Clinical Practice Alessio Martucci, Maria Dolores Pinazo-Duran, Carlo Nucci, 2025-03-12 Glaucoma is one of the leading causes of global irreversible blindness. It is characterized by a progressive loss of retinal ganglion cells with corresponding optic nerve alterations and visual field loss. The pathophysiology of glaucoma is multifactorial and there are several clinical phenotypes. Diagnosis of glaucoma is not always straightforward. Glaucoma slowly damages the eyes, causing irreversible injury before there is any vision loss, which implies that a large number of glaucoma patients remain undiagnosed, leading to blindness. Elevated intraocular pressure (IOP) is recognized as a major risk factor for the development and progression of glaucoma, and lowering IOP is currently the primary strategy of treating the disease. However, new medical treatment strategies such as neuroprotectors and para-surgical or surgical treatments have been proposed. Numerous clinical trials evaluating either medical surgical or behavioral interventions are being conducted around the world to study glaucoma with the aim of improving its diagnosis management and treatment
