From Above and Below Craig Livingston,2013-06-01 2014 Best International Book Award Mormon History Association For the first century of their church s existence Mormon observers of international events studied and cheered global revolutions as a religious exercise As believers in divine human co agency many prominent Mormons saw global revolutions as providential precursors to the imminent establishment of the terrestrial kingdom of God French Revolutionary symbolism socialist critiques of industrialism American Indian nationalism and Wilsonian internationalism all became the raw materials of Mormon millennial theologies which were sometimes barely distinguishable from secular utopianism Many Mormon thinkers accepted secular revolutionary arguments that the old world order needed to be destroyed not merely reformed to clear the way for the new In From Above and Below author Craig Livingston tells the story of Mormon commentary on global revolutions from the European revolutions of 1848 to the collapse of Mormon faith in progress in the 1930s when revolutionary communist and fascist regimes exposed themselves as violent and repressive As the Church bureaucratized and assimilated to mainstream American and capitalist values Mormons became champions of the conservative view of political and social development for which they are known today The first Mormon converts in Mexico and France both political radicals would scarcely recognize the arch conservative twenty first century Church

A ^Troubled Sleep James Waller,2021-02-15 In contemporary Northern Ireland more than two decades after the peace agreement that ended the thirty year sectarian violence known as the Troubles the risk of a return to violent conflict is progressively accumulating in a rising tide and resilience is rapidly receding From Northern Ireland we can learn what happens when identity politics prevail over democracy when a paralysis in governance leads to a political vacuum that leaves spaces open for extremist voices to dominate when de facto social segregation becomes normalized when acclimatization to violence becomes a generational legacy and when questions of who we are become secondary to who we are not

The Sister Fidelma Mysteries Edward J. Rielly,David Robert Wooten,2012-08-09 This is a collection of new essays on Peter

Tremayne's Sister Fidelma novels which feature Sister Fidelma's attempts to solve a wide range of crimes often murders that occur under especially mysterious conditions. The novels set mainly in 7th century Ireland also include a great deal of history which is not surprising given that the author is actually Peter Berresford Ellis a noted Celtic historian. Some of the essays analyze aspects of the novels focusing especially on the protagonist and her partner in detection and ultimately husband Brother Eadulf. Other essays place Fidelma and the novels within the tradition of detective fiction. Still others explore the historical intellectual spiritual and geographical contexts for her labors. Also included are accounts of the author's career the International Sister Fidelma Society and the biennial Sister Fidelma conferences held in Cashel Ireland.

Memory and Remembering in Early Irish Literature Sarah Künzler, 2023-12-04 Ireland possesses an early and exceptionally rich medieval vernacular tradition in which memory plays a key role. What attitudes to remembering and forgetting are expressed in secular early Irish texts? How do the texts conceptualise the past and what does this conceptualisation tell us about the present and future? Who mediates and validates different versions of the past and how is future remembrance guaranteed? This study approaches such questions through close readings of individual texts. It centres on three major aspects of medieval Irish memory culture: places and landscapes; the provision of information about the past by miraculously old eye witnesses; and the personal social and cultural impact of forgetting. The discussions shed light on the relationship between memory and forgetting and explore the connections between the past present and future. This shows the fascinating spatio-temporal identity constructions in medieval Ireland and links the Irish texts to the broader European world. The monograph makes this rich literary source available to an interdisciplinary audience and is of interest to both a general medievalist audience and those working in Cultural Memory Studies.

Massacre in West Cork: The Dunmanway and Ballygroman Killings Barry Keane, 2014-01-17 The deaths in and around Dunmanway in 1922 have always been shrouded in rumour and supposition. This book seeks to get to the bottom of them. One thing is certain: Captain Herbert Woods shot Commandant Michael O'Neill of the IRA on the stairs of Ballygroman House at 2.30 a.m. on the 26th April and killed him. Who was Herbert Woods and why did he shoot an unarmed man? Who was Michael O'Neill and what was he doing inside the house at that hour of the morning? What connection had this event to the killing of ten Protestants in West Cork over the next three nights? Are they connected with the killing of four British soldiers in Macroom on the same day? What was the effect on the local Protestant minority? What happened after Herbert Woods and his Hornibrook relations were arrested by the Irish Republican Police and disappeared? This book attempts to answer all these questions. Using previously overlooked evidence it proves that the real story is a simple one of revenge. It directly challenges claims of sectarianism and British involvement, presenting a true story of these appalling events.
