endeavours to give shape to a sense of Taiwanese identity Despite the prevalence of artists engaged in social issues in today's world and the undeniable contributions of artistic residency to contemporary art practice little literature or scholarly research has been conducted on the practical conceptual and ideological aspects of artist residency Very often it is perceived in very narrow terms overlooking explicit or hidden issues of localism nationalism and globalization If artistic residence did indeed emerge from the radical movements of the 1960s and 70s in the Western world and especially Britain then this book argues that the contemporary sociocultural context of Taiwan calls for redefined culturally specific models of residency The precarious geo political situation of Taiwan has made issues of cultural identity tackled by artists and successive governments alike very sensitive A new genre of artistic residence in Taiwan would mean that artists involved from whatever cultural background operate as engaging interpreters their roles would not be confined to mirroring culture and society These artists in residence would contribute to cultural awakening by offering ways of negotiating creatively with otherness and this for the sake of a better social life and shared identity

Faces in the Clouds Stewart Elliott Guthrie, 1995-04-06 Religion is universal human culture No phenomenon is more widely shared or more intensely studied yet there is no agreement on what religion is Now in Faces in the Clouds anthropologist Stewart Guthrie provides a provocative definition of religion in a bold and persuasive new theory Guthrie says religion can best be understood as systematic anthropomorphism that is the attribution of human characteristics to nonhuman things and events Many writers see anthropomorphism as common or even universal in religion but few think it is central To Guthrie however it is fundamental Religion he writes consists of seeing the world as humanlike As Guthrie shows people find a wide range of humanlike beings plausible Gods spirits abominable snowmen HAL the computer Chiquita Banana We find messages in random events such as earthquakes weather and traffic accidents We say a fire rages a storm wreaks vengeance and waters lie still Guthrie says that our tendency to find human characteristics in the nonhuman world stems from a deep seated perceptual strategy in the face of pervasive if mostly unconscious uncertainty about what we see we bet on the most meaningful interpretation we can If we are in the woods and see a dark shape that might be a bear or a boulder for example it is good policy to think it is a bear If we are mistaken we lose little and if we are right we gain much So Guthrie writes in scanning the world we always look for what most concerns us living things and especially human ones Even animals watch for human attributes as when birds avoid scarecrows In short we all follow the principle better safe than sorry Marshalling a wealth of evidence from anthropology cognitive science philosophy theology advertising literature art and animal behavior Guthrie offers a fascinating array of examples to show how this perceptual strategy pervades secular life and how it characterizes religious experience Challenging the very foundations of religion Faces in the Clouds forces us to take a new look at this fundamental element of human life

Black Artists in Their Own Words Lisa E. Farrington, 2025 The first book to center Black artists voices on Black aesthetics revealing a century of evolving relationships to race identity and art What is Black art No one has thought harder about that question than Black artists yet their perspectives have been largely ignored Instead their stories have been told by intellectuals like W E B Du Bois and Alain Locke who defined a school of Black art in the early twentieth century For the first time Black Artists in Their Own Words offers an insightful corrective Esteemed art historian Lisa Farrington gathers writing spanning a century across the United States the Caribbean and the African continent including from renowned artists Henry Tanner Nancy Elizabeth Prophet

Romare Bearden Wifredo Lam Renee Cox and many more that reveals both evolutions and equivocations Many artists especially during the civil rights era have embraced Black aesthetics as a source of empowerment Others prefer to be artists first and Black second while some have rejected racial identification entirely Here Black artists reclaim their work from reductive critical narratives sharing the motivations underlying their struggles to create in a white dominated art world
