
The background of the image is a serene landscape at dusk or dawn. A dark, silhouetted mountain range stretches across the middle ground, with a prominent peak in the center. Below the mountains, a calm body of water reflects the soft, warm light of the sky. The sky is a gradient of colors, from a deep orange near the horizon to a darker, muted brown at the top. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

Eye Of The Heart:

The Eye in the Heart Tanith Lee, 2000 The Senses of Scripture Yael Avrahami, 2012-06-15 The Senses of Scripture reveals the essence of biblical epistemology the ways in which ancient Israelites thought about and used their sensorium The theoretical introduction demonstrates that scholars need to liberate themselves from the Western bias that holds a pentasensory paradigm and prioritises the sense of sight The discussion of the biblical material demonstrates that biblical scholars should follow a similar path Through examination of associative and contextual patterns the author reaches a septasensory model including sight hearing speech kinaesthesia touch taste and smell It is further demonstrated that the senses according to the HB are a divinely created physical experience which symbolised human ability to act in a sovereign manner in the world Despite the lack of a biblical Hebrew term sense it seems that at times the merism sight and hearing serves that matter Finally the book discusses the longstanding dispute regarding the primacy of sight vs hearing and claims that although there is no strict sensory hierarchy evident in the text sight holds a central space in biblical epistemology
