Maverick Autobiographies Cathryn Halverson, 2004 Halverson examines why and brings their texts back to light through a weaving of biography literary analysis and cultural history in the process urging us to reformulate our notions of what it means to be a western writer Halverson's discoveries will appeal to scholars and critics of Western American literature and women's studies BOOK JACKET The Story of Opal: The Journal of an Understanding Heart Opal Whiteley, 1920

More than Petticoats: Remarkable Oregon Women Gayle Shirley, 2010-06-01 More than Petticoats Remarkable Oregon Women 2nd Edition celebrates the women who shaped the Beaver State Short illuminating biographies and archival photographs and paintings tell the stories of women from across the state who served as teachers writers entrepreneurs and artists Opal Opal Whiteley, 2010-04-14 A lyrical lovely and deeply touching adaptation of an authentic journal kept by an orphaned six year old girl later believed to be a French princess living in an Oregon lumber camp at the turn of the century 24 black and white photographs Play of Colors Germaine Cross, 2005-08 In 1897 a baby girl was born to a poor lumberjack and his wife She was named Opal Whiteley In 1920 she wrote a book alleging she was the victim of an orchestrated kidnapping In 1923 the media frenzy forced her to flee the country In 1992 she was buried in London England under two different names What unraveled in between is a true story filled with intrigue tragedy and a shocking conclusion

Playing House in the American West Cathryn Halverson, 2013-11-26 Examines an eclectic group of western women's autobiographical texts canonical and otherwise Playing House in the American West argues for a distinct regional literary tradition characterized by strategic representations of unconventional domestic life The controlling metaphor Cathryn Halverson uses in her engrossing study is playing house From Caroline Kirkland and Laura Ingalls Wilder to Willa Cather and Marilynne Robinson from the mid nineteenth to the late twentieth centuries western authors have persistently embraced wayward or eccentric housekeeping to prove a woman's difference from western neighbors and eastern readers alike The readings in Playing House investigate the surprising textual ends to which westerners turn the familiar terrain of the home evaluating community arguing for different conceptions of race and class and perhaps most especially resisting traditional gender roles Western women writers Halverson argues render the home as a stage for autonomy resistance and imagination rather than as a site of sacrifice and obligation The western women examined in Playing House in the American West are promoted and read as representatives of a region as insiders offering views of distant and intriguing ways of life even as they conceive of themselves as outsiders By playing with domestic conventions they recast the region they describe portraying the West as a place that fosters female agency individuality and subjectivity
