Collecting the Revolution Emily R. Williams, 2022-03-08 In the late 1960s student protests broke out throughout much of the world and while Britain's anti Vietnam protestors and China's Red Guards were clearly radically different these movements at times shared inspirations aspirations and aesthetics Within Western popular media Mao's China was portrayed as a danger to world peace but at the same time for some on the counter cultural left the Cultural Revolution 1966 1976 contained ideas worthy of exploration Moreover because of Britain's continued colonial possession of Hong Kong Britain had a specific interest in ongoing events in China and information was highly sought after Thus the objects that China exported propaganda posters paintings Mao badges periodicals ceramics etc became a crucial avenue through which China was known at this time and interest in them crossed the political divide Collecting the Revolution uses the objects that the Chinese government sent abroad and that visitors brought back with them to open up the stories of diplomats journalists activists students and others and how they imagined engaged with and later remembered Mao's China through its objects It chronicles the story of how these objects were later incorporated into the collections of some of Britain's most prominent museums thus allowing later generations to continue to engage with one of the most controversial and important periods of China's recent history China Peter Xiaoming Yu, G. seeking to fill the gaps in one's existing understanding of things Chinese this book provides an abundance of useful information Oral Evidence, Memoranda and Appendices to the Interim Report Great Britain.
