Livestock Housing C. M. Wathes, D. R. Charles, 1994 Livestock housing is a major determinant of animal health welfare and productivity This book presents the important principles and processes by which housing influences these outcomes and shows how an understanding of these can be translated into specifications for housing designs The emphasis is on the building as a means to an environmental end focusing on the biological responses and welfare needs of animals in the context of commercial and economic considerations The book provides a thorough literature review as well as practical guidance and is aimed at academics and professionals in animal production veterinary science and agricultural engineering The Welfare of Cattle Jeffrey Rushen, Anne Marie de Passillé, Marina A. G. von Keyserlingk, Daniel M. Weary, 2007-12-06 This book covers all aspects of research into the welfare of dairy veal and beef cattle covering behavior nutrition and feeding housing and management stockmanship and stress physiology as well as transport and slaughter It also offers a detailed and critical analysis of the main indicators of animal welfare and covers the main threats to animal welfare in modern cattle production systems Farm Animal Welfare, 1979-March 1987 Charles N. Bebee, 1987 Japan's Agricultural Market and Trade, 1979-March 1987 Mary E. Lassanyi, 1987 Social Space for Domestic Animals R. Zayan, 1985-11-30 Social space in farm animals was the subject of the semi nar held in Brussels on January 10 11 1985 at the Commis sion of the European Communities C E C Directorate General for Agriculture As part of the work of the Division for the Coordination of Agricultural Research the seminar was organi zed in the context of the various problems bearing relevance to animal welfare

Also one of its main purports was to present experimental results which were obtained in various laboratories working in a CEC research programme on social space particularly on the spatial requirements of laying hens in battery cages. These results are presented in section II of the proceedings and section III offers similar results in other domestic animals such as pigs, dairy cows and sheep. These contributions have focused on the problems raised by density selected as a major variable among those present in current farm animal housing. In contrast to other books devoted to welfare and stress of farm livestock, the present one emphasizes the relation between spatial measures, group size and floor area per animal and social behaviour or social structure in domestic animals. The second objective of the seminar was to provide and discuss available information from experiments on social space in laboratory species and in domestic animals observed in non-intensive environments.

Management and Welfare of Farm Animals John Webster, Jean Margerison, 2022-06-21. Management and Welfare of Farm Animals provides comprehensive and up-to-date information on the humane management of all major farmed species in both large-scale food production and alternative farming systems. Designed for agricultural and veterinary science students, this classic textbook covers the management and welfare of species including dairy and beef cattle, veal calves, sheep, pigs, chickens, turkeys, goats, horses, and farmed fish. The sixth edition incorporates recent developments throughout, including an entirely new chapter on international developments in animal welfare law, politics and practice. Updated chapters discuss topics such as high welfare livestock systems, the impact of automation and new technologies on production and welfare, the ecological impact and sustainability issues of large-scale production systems, and more. Provides a basic understanding of the principles and practices of professional and humane farm animal management. Covers animal husbandry behavior as an indicator of animal welfare and the assessment, monitoring and promotion of improved welfare at the farm level. Offers updated information on free-range poultry, robot milking, automated disease scanning and pastoral systems in the developing world. Includes less common farm species such as South American camelids, ostriches and game birds. Management and Welfare of Farm Animals, Sixth Edition remains the ideal textbook for students in professional, technical or vocational education courses on the management and welfare of farm animals.

Production Diseases in Farm Animals Th Wensing, 1999-02-26. High-producing farm animals (dairy cows, beef cattle, veal calves, pigs, sheep, etc.) are permanently challenged by a variety of factors: lack of proper nutrition, deficit surplus housing systems, infections and stress. The incidence, course and outcome of production diseases are changing continuously. Therefore, new information on prevention, diagnosis and treatment of production diseases is needed. These problems are complicated by the discussion of animal welfare, the rapid changes in agricultural production and the economics of production. This complexity can only be analysed, pushed forward or eventually solved by an interdisciplinary approach which can stimulate new ideas for research and collaboration. At the 10th International Conference on Production Diseases in Farm Animals 1998, about 120 scientists in the field of large animal science presented the results of their research in connection with this subject. The full papers of the key note lectures and the abstracts of the scientific presentations are published in this book The abstracts in this book provide scientists veterinarians and other workers in animal husbandry with the most recent findings of ongoing research Over 20 full papers provide up to date reviews of the developments in the different disciplines in relation to the production diseases in modern husbandry

Whilst some benefits have proved elusive others contribute positively to today's agriculture. Research continues to be necessary and needs to be reported and disseminated to a wide audience. These proceedings contain the reviewed papers from the 4th European Conference on Precision Livestock Farming. The papers reflect the wide range of disciplines that impinge upon precision livestock farming including feeding, dairy, data, quality, poultry and pig applications, livestock environment, wireless sensing, dairy fertility and calving management, animal identification, mastitis detection and locomotion. The broad range of research topics reported are a valuable resource for researchers, advisors, teachers and professionals in agriculture. Also note that the reviewed papers from the 7th European Conference on Precision Agriculture are presented in a companion publication.

Livestock Farming Systems D Gagnaux, J R Poffet, 2000-11. Sustainable livestock farming and improved product quality are societal concerns that currently influence the direction of research on livestock farming systems. LFS. Livestock feeding plays a major role in animal health and product quality. Systems research into these areas is an effective way of studying the complex interactions between feeding, health and management. The growing emphasis on new objectives such as landscape preservation and organic livestock farming also calls for systems research. The book focuses on the following topics: advances in modelling animal nutrition and health and their interactions at farm level; advances for managing LFS for land use sustainability in contrasted environments with a special emphasis on mountain conditions; improvement of health, welfare and production in organic livestock farming; decision support systems and models for improving livestock farming management.

Bovine Medicine Anthony H. Andrews, Roger W. Blowey, Hugh Boyd, Roger G. Eddy, 2008-04-15. Bovine Medicine provides practical and comprehensive information on cattle disease and production and is a key reference for all large animal vets. Since the first edition was published in 1991 there have been significant improvements in disease control and management of cattle. Almost all parts of the book have been updated and completely rewritten. There are new chapters on surgery, embryo transfer, artificial insemination, ethnoveterinary medicine and biosecurity and a new consolidating chapter on the interaction between the animal environment, management and disease. The previous edition has sold all over the world and as a result of this a greater emphasis has been placed on conditions and their treatment in areas other than temperate regions. A new section entitled Global Variation in Cattle Practice has been included with contributors discussing bovine medicine practice in their part of the world. All in all this is an outstanding resource for any practising vet and an excellent reference for veterinary students.

Helminth Zoonoses Stanny Geerts, V. Kumar, J. Brandt, 1987-06-30. In spite of the availability of modern broad spectrum anthelmintic drugs the prevention and control of helminth zoonoses remain a challenge to human and veterinary parasitologists and to physicians and veterinarians working on the field. Although the life cycles of most helminths of zoonotic importance are well known there are still major gaps in our knowledge especially in the fields of epidemiology, diagnosis and treatment. The International Colloquium on Helminth Zoonoses held at the Institute of Tropical Medicine Antwerp 11-12 December 1986 laid emphasis on more recent advances.

made in the control and epidemiology of these zoonotic diseases. The disease complexes echinococcosis, hydatidosis, taeniasis, cysticercosis and the larva migrans syndrome were dealt with in considerable detail. In the first chapter the phenomenon of strain variation in Echinococcus spp is examined in the light of newer findings. The progress made in recent years towards a more specific diagnosis and drug targeting in hydatidosis is reported. In the second chapter recent advances in immunisation and treatment of cysticercosis are dealt with. The possibility of the existence of strain differences in Taenia saginata is also discussed. The third chapter is devoted to trematode zoonoses with particular reference to the situation in South east Asia, Senegal schistosomiasis and Liberia paragonimiasis. In the last chapter the larva migrans syndrome is treated in detail with special attention to its etiology and diagnosis. Reports on lesser known nematode zoonoses like mammomonosomiasis and oesophagostomiasis are included.
