Fowler, 1983-07-07 Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Food and Farming in

Prehistoric Britain Paul Elliott, 2016 The lost cooking techniques of Stone Age and Iron Age Britain are brought vividly to life in the prehistoric kitchen Farming Practice in British Prehistory Roger Mercer, Roger J. Mercer, 1984 The Landscape and crops Wildscape to Landscape Endosure in prehistoric Britain Early Agriculture in Scotland Agricultural tools Function and use slash and Burn in the Temperate European neolithic Deadstock and Livestock Reconstructing crop Husbandry practices from charred remains of crops Animal Husbandry Aspects of cattle husbandry Livestock products Skins and fleeces Early manuring techniques Prehistoric Farming in Europe Graeme Barker, 1985-07-11 Drawing upon his own extensive knowledge of European archaeology Graeme Barker has impressively integrated the full range of archaeological data to produce in this book a masterly account of prehistoric farming in Europe on a unique scale He makes use of modern archaeological techniques to reconstruct the lives of prehistoric farmers in remarkable detail Not only do we now have a vivid picture of the prehistoric farmyard but we know what animals were kept how they were fed and why they were bred Evidence for crops grown and techniques of cultivation and husbandry helps recreate the prehistoric landscape Even the social organisation that determined the use of resources and provided the crucial stimulus for agricultural change can be relived Graeme Barker develops his argument through analogies with the agricultural history of classical and medieval Europe and concludes that today's industrial farmers can learn much from the successes and failures of early European farming

Farmers in Prehistoric Britain Francis Pryor, 2011 Francis Pryor maintains that early farming in Britain has been misunderstood because British archaeology is essentially an urban activity studied by people who have lost contact with the countryside In this book he draws on his experience Anglo-Saxon Farms and Farming Debby Banham, Rosamond

Faith, 2014 Farming was the basis of the wealth that made England worth invading twice in the eleventh century while trade and manufacturing were insignificant by modern standards In Anglo Saxon Farms and Farming the authors employ a wide range of evidence to investigate how Anglo Saxon farmers produced the food and other agricultural products that sustained English economy society and culture before the Norman Conquest The first part of the volume draws on written and pictorial sources archaeology place names and the history of the English language to discover what crops and livestock people raised and what tools and techniques were used to produce them In part two using a series of landscape studies place names maps and the landscape itself the authors explore how these techniques might have been combined into working agricultural regimes in different parts of the country A picture emerges of an agriculture that changed from an essentially prehistoric state in the sub Roman period to what was recognisably the beginning of a tradition that only ended with the Second World War Anglo Saxon farming was not only sustainable but infinitely adaptable to different soils and geology and to a climate changing as unpredictably as it is today

An Environmental History of Wildlife in England 1650 - 1950 Tom Williamson, 2013-12-05 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2014 While few detailed surveys of fauna or flora exist in England from the period before the nineteenth century it is possible to combine the evidence of historical sources ranging from game books diaries churchwardens accounts and even folk songs and our wider knowledge of past land use and landscape with contemporary analyses made by modern natural scientists in order to model the situation at various times and places in the more remote past This timely volume encompasses both rural and urban environments from 1650 to the mid twentieth century drawing on a wide variety of social historical and ecological sources It examines the impact of social and economic organisation on the English landscape biodiversity the agricultural revolution landed estates the coming of large scale industry and the growth of towns and suburbs It also develops an original perspective on the complexity and ambiguity of man animal relationships in this post medieval period Foraging and Farming David R. Harris, Gordon C.

Hillman, 2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 attempting to bring together not only archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world as well as academics from contingent disciplines but also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This volume develops a new approach to plant exploitation and early agriculture in a worldwide comparative context It modifies the conceptual dichotomy between hunter gatherers and farmers viewing human exploitation of plant resources as a global evolutionary process which incorporated the beginnings of cultivation and crop domestication The studies throughout the book come from a worldwide range of geographical contexts from the Andes to China and from Australia to the Upper Mid West of North America This work is of interest to anthropologists archaeologists botanists and geographers Originally published 1989 Neolithic Farming in Central Europe Amy Bogaard, 2004-09-16 Neolithic Farming in Central Europe examines the nature of the earliest crop cultivation a subject that illuminates the lives of Neolithic farming families and the day to day reality of the transition from hunting and gathering to farming Debate surrounding the nature of crop husbandry in Neolithic central Europe has focussed on the permanence of cultivation its intensity and its seasonality variables that carry different implications for Neolithic society Amy Bogaard reviews the archaeological evidence for four major competing models of Neolithic crop husbandry shifting cultivation extensive plough cultivation floodplain cultivation and intensive garden cultivation and evaluates charred crop and weed assemblages Her conclusions identify the most appropriate model of cultivation and highlight the consequences of these agricultural practices for our understanding of Neolithic societies in central Europe Archaeology and Anthropology David Shankland, 2020-05-18 Though archaeologists have long acknowledged the work of social anthropologists anthropologists have been much less eager to repay the compliment This volume argues that the time has come to recognise the insights archaeological approaches can bring to anthropology Archaeology's rigorous approach to evidence and material culture its ability to develop flexible research methodologies its readiness to work with large scale models of comparative social change and to embrace the latest technology all means that it can offer valuable methods that can enrich and enhance current anthropological thinking Cross disciplinary and international in scope this exciting volume draws together cutting edge essays on the relationship between the two disciplines arguing for greater collaboration and pointing to new concepts and approaches for anthropology With contributions from leading scholars this book will be essential reading for students and scholars of archaeology anthropology

1997-1998 Gwilym Hughes, Ann Woodward, 2015-12-31 Excavations of a large part of an extensive Iron Age settlement carried out between 1997-1998 at Covert Farm located near Crick in northwestern Northamptonshire The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 1, Prehistory to AD 1042 Stuart Piggott, Joan Thirsk, 2011-04-28 This volume surveys the evolution of the man-made landscape in Britain over the period of some three millennia before the Roman conquest Is There a British Chalcolithic? Michael J. Allen, Julie Gardiner, Alison Sheridan, 2012-06-09 The Chalcolithic the phase in prehistory when the important technical development of adding tin to copper to produce bronze had not yet taken place is not a term generally used by British prehistorians and whether there is even a definable phase is debated Is There a British Chalcolithic brings together many leading authorities in 20 papers that address this question Papers are grouped under several headings Definitions Issues and Debate considers whether appropriate criteria apply that define a distinctive period c. 2450-2150 cal BC in cultural, social and temporal terms with particular emphasis on the role and status of metal artifacts and Beaker pottery Continental Perspectives addresses various aspects of comparative regions of Europe where a Chalcolithic has been defined Around Britain and Ireland presents a series of large-scale regional case studies where authors argue for and against the adoption of the term The final section Economy Landscapes and Monuments looks at aspects of economy, land use and burial tradition and provides a detailed consideration of the Stonehenge and Avebury landscapes during the period in question The volume contains much detailed information on sites and artifacts and comprehensive radiocarbon datasets that will be invaluable to scholars and students studying this enigmatic but pivotal episode of British Prehistory Additional information originally found on included CD-ROM can be downloaded here https://books.casematepublishers.com/Is\_There\_a\_British\_Chalcolithic.pdf Challenging Preconceptions of the European Iron Age Wendy Morrison, 2022-06-20 This collection of essays by leading researchers in the archaeology of the European Iron Age pays tribute to Professor John Collis who since the 1960s has been involved in investigating and enriching our understanding of Iron Age society and crucially questioning the status quo of our narratives about the past Cliffs End Farm Isle of Thanet, Kent Jacqueline I. McKinley, Matt Leivers, Jörn Schuster, Peter Marshall, 2015-02-05 Excavations at Cliffs End Farm Thanet Kent undertaken in 2004-5 uncovered a dense area of archaeological remains including Bronze Age barrows and enclosures and a large prehistoric mortuary feature as well as a small early 6th to late 7th century Anglo-Saxon inhumation cemetery An extraordinary series of human and animal remains were recovered from the Late Bronze Age/Middle Iron Age mortuary feature revealing a wealth of evidence for mortuary rites including exposure, excarnation and curation The site seems to have been largely abandoned in the later Iron Age and very little Romano-British activity was identified In the early 6th century a small inhumation cemetery was established Very little human bone survived within the 21 graves where the burial environment differed from that within the prehistoric mortuary feature but grave goods indicate females and males were buried here Richly furnished graves included that of a female buried with a necklace a pair of brooches and a purse as well as a male with a shield covering his face a knife and spearhead In the Middle Saxon period lines of pits possibly delineating boundaries were dug some of which contained large deposits of marine shells English Heritage funded an extensive programme of radiocarbon and isotope analyses which have produced some surprising results that shed new light on long distance contacts mobility and mortuary rites during later prehistory This volume presents the results of the investigations together with the scientific analyses human bone artefact and environmental reports
