coast of Japan alongside its beautiful Inland Sea Except for his rather mystifying visit to Tokyo in the summer of 1946 his entire book is based almost entirely on his personal diary and notes which he wrote while aboard his homeward bound ship at the end of his tour of duty at the end of that year crucially when the events he describes were still very fresh in his mind He writes about the utter devastation and despair under which people were living after the horrors of Hiroshima about the Japanese peoples response to the Allied Occupation and the resilience and fortitude with which they faced up to their troubles As opposed to formal and official documents Bernard Smith writes about human suffering and the harsh conditions under which people were living He tells us of his meetings with families with whom he found relaxation from the gloom and with whom he became very friendly He also describes how the people faithfully continued to follow their traditional Japanese customs and culture the observance of which he believes sustained them and helped them begin their ultimate recovery
