Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Science and Technology for International Development, 1988-02-01 In developing countries traditional fishermen are important food contributors yet technological information and development assistance to third world nations often focuses on agriculture and industrial fishing without addressing the needs of independent small scale fishermen This book explores technological considerations of small scale primitive fishing technologies and describes innovative relatively inexpensive methods and tools that have already been successfully applied in developing countries It offers practical information about all aspects of small scale fishing including boat design and construction fishing methods and gear artificial reef construction and fish aggregating devices techniques for coastal mariculture and simple methods for processing and preserving fish once they are caught Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries is illustrated throughout with photographs of the devices and construction methods described in the text Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries ,1989 Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries ,1988 Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries National Research Council, Research Council National Research Council, Adam Starchild, 2002-08 The future of traditional fisheries will be shaped by the attention given to their special problems and by the recognition of their unique value Declining stocks of readily accessible fish competition from industrial fishermen high operating costs less than optimal gear and vessels poor storage and marketing facilities and little access to credit all tend to limit development for fishermen in the traditional sector Many developing countries have ignored traditional fishermen and have concentrated their assistance in industrial fisheries Developing countries could increase their fish harvest and improve the quality of life for their coastal dwellers by providing traditional fishing communities with access to modest technical and financial resources and by assuring protection for their fishing grounds The evaluation and introduction of some of the technologies described in this report could initiate this process Fisheries Technologies for Developing Countries Board on Science and Technology for International Development, 1988 Technology and Developing Countries Richard Heeks, 2020-04-28 The relationship between technology and development is explored by economists policy analysts and other experts The adoption of technology is studied in five main areas agriculture energy infrastructure the introduction of technology and the success and constraints of technological diffusion as a whole This volume also examines the technology transfer between North and South from a perspective of training environmental impact and aid dependency The emphasis is not placed simply on finding problems but ways forward are examined By bringing together both practical and intellectual analysis this collection signposts future directions in the technology development relationship Aquaculture Technology in Developing Countries Randall E. Brummett, 2016-04-08 Aquaculture technology has been evolving rapidly over the last two decades led by an increasingly skilled cadre of researchers in developing countries Rather than copying or adapting work done in industrialized countries to their situations these scientists are moving aquaculture research out of the box to explore species and production systems relevant to their natural resources economies and social institutions Studies from India Latin America the Middle East and Africa are highlighted in this collection of papers covering the entire gamut of aquaculture science from comparison of tilapia breeds novel feed ingredients for indigenous species improving disease resistance water use efficiency traditional farming systems spatial planning and economics More than a how to book this volume introduces the researchers and institutions leading the development of aquaculture as it expands into new frontiers This book was based on a special issue of the Journal of Applied Aquaculture Report of the Expert Consultation on International Fish Trade and Food Security, 2003-01-01 Recommendations made include the need for a background study and consultation on the normative framework for fish trade and food security for the preparation of technical guidelines on the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries CCRF fish trade and food security and better training to improve capacity of policy makers and technical personnel on international issues dealing with fish trade and food security A.I.D. Research and Development Abstracts United States. Agency for International Development, 1989 Transferring Food Production Technology To Developing Nations Joseph J Molnar, 2019-06-18 This book explores the social economic and policy problems associated with introducing new agriculture and aquaculture technology to developing nations as a means for expanding food supplies and increasing well being The contributors examine three general facets of planning for technology transfer and consider methodologies that enable effective *A.I.D.
