

Hardest Card to Write

Team Response

Art/ID

Pak-Man   Yesterday at 11:53 PM

English is a tricky thing. It took me embarrassingly long to realize that Tarnax doesn't count the number of locations (It would almost always be 3) and shuffle that many rocks into the loser's deck, but rather shuffles one rock into the deck of the loser in each location. (And please correct me if I'm wrong.)

My question: What card's ability was the hardest to translate into text that could easily be understood in the space given?

Why did the team decide to use the first person when creating the card text. It was jarring at first to read what the card did because other cards aren't worded in this way even when they refer to themselves.

No version of the card we wrote in the third person fit in three lines—that was a significant part of what made it the most onerous. I wrote and mocked at least 50 versions of the card. (edited)
