Finger Pointing to the Moon Osho, 2024-05-03. One who is not ready to stake his very life will never be able to know the hidden mysteries of life. Those secrets are not available cheaply. Knowledge is available very cheaply; knowledge is available from books, from scriptures, in education with the teachers. Knowledge is available almost for free; you do not have to pay anything for it. In religion you have to pay heavily. It is not right even to say heavily because only when someone stakes everything do the doors to that life open. The doors to that life open only for those who put this life at stake. To put this life at stake is the only key to the door of that life. But knowledge is very cheap so the mind chooses the easier and the cheaper way. We learn things, words, doctrines and think that we know. Such knowledge only enhances ignorance.

Parks, 2018-11-16 There are ways of being in the world that create a flourishing life and other ways that restrict that life both for ourselves and others Listening is one of these ways of being Listening gives shape to speaking inviting other people into a dialogue that impacts our everyday lives Our acts of listening like all communication are shaped by our cultural and individual differences Unfortunately as people consider ways to ethically listen they often abide by a set of conversational rules that do not reflect or benefit their own or others unique contexts and communities In this book Parks responds to gaps in scholarship related to listening in communication research and difference in ethics scholarship Rather than imposing a rigid ethical norm that is unresponsive to diverse cultural practices her proposed listening ethic is one that is highly contextualized and pluralistic and yet dares to make normative claims Using discourse research methods that are both qualitative and quantitative Parks goes beyond describing what listening is in a given context to what ethical listening should be Empirical findings about listening from multiple communities that represent diverse ethnic gender and disability orientations are interwoven with insights from communication ethics to develop the first ever dialogic ethics of listening that is empirically based culturally grounded and normative Ten shared values emerge as guidelines for good listening in this ethic be open cultivate understanding practice authenticity engage in critical thinking invest in relationship care for the dialogue focus on what matters be intentionally present remember the ongoing story and be responsive to need These values while shared across cultures may be expressed in a diverse and sometimes conflicting communicative practices Ultimately Parks proposes that ethical listening is best conceptualized as pursuit of sustainable hospitality in our dialogic interactions within and across difference By understanding the ways that different people share listening values yet practice them differently we can learn to trust each other and attest to the hope that ethical dialogue is possible

Ignored Jinna Sil Lo Jin, 2022-03-11 America gets more diverse than ever before and it is our responsibility to respect this diversity before us Although many people claim that diversity matters there are so many marginalized people who have not been heard yet Korean speaking young people are one of them They have been marginalized not only by the main culture but also by their own community This study illuminates this hidden population and their stories as emerging adults with socially emotionally and spiritually unstable status With a practical theology approach this study provides not only about who are the Korean speaking young adults but also what is the current praxis and how the immigrant community can have different imaginations about their future with these young people Including data gathered survey and in depth interviews Ignored is the first comprehensive study that addresses Korean speaking young people By sharing unheard stories this book invites us to understand our diverse community Furthermore this book brings new imagination of listening others who have been ignored
