From Aid To Re Colonization Lessons Of A:

Sociology as Social Criticism (Routledge Revivals) Tom B. Bottomore, 2012-09-10 First published in 1975 this collection of essays embodies a conception of sociological thought as a critical analysis of social theories and doctrines of social institutions and political regimes of recent social movements They deal in particular with some conservative versions of sociology and with attempts to develop more radical theories they extend the author's previous writings on classes elites and politics and they analyse some of the problems of socialism in the late twentieth century There is a close unity of theme throughout the book in its critical attempt to formulate new intellectual bases for future radical and egalitarian politics It is written with that quiet wisdom and impressive command of sources which readers have come to associate with Professor Bottomore's work

The Determinants of Arab Economic Development Yusuf Sayigh, 2014-10-30 This book explores in depth the factors determining economic development in the Arab region The particular factors relevant to the Arab world are also set within the context of the broad political economy of underdevelopment The factors are identified as comprising three main groups economic political administrative and socio cultural petroleum and regional Arab economic development are examined separately The force and operation of each determinant is further assessed in the context of the individual countries from which the author is able to arrive at some important conclusions concerning the interaction of these determinants and their impact upon development First published in 1978

Exchange Of Expertise/h Irving J. Spitzberg, 2019-04-11 The vision of the New International Order emphasizes justice and equality It also raises profound questions about the nature and future of the relationship between postindustrial and Third World countries The counterpart system describes one aspect of this relationship an expert from a postindustrial country teaches a special skill to a Third World national In this collection contributors draw on political science economics education sociology history and communications theory to illuminate the forces that shape the nature of the exchange of expertise between postindustrial and Third World countries Each author raises theoretical points and offers practical observations about the future of this exchange a critical point of contact in the New International Order

The United Nations and Education David Coleman, Phillip W. Jones, 2004-11-10 The UN is often questioned about its ongoing relevance and overall effectiveness in the 21st century particularly in its involvement with educational policy and co operation around the globe This ground breaking book examines the four key agencies within the UN system that share the vital role of addressing educational futures UNESCO the World Bank UNICEF and UNDP As the core of educational multilateralism these agencies powerfully reflect the UN's historic grounding in peace human rights and economic development The history of each agency's commitment to education is explored with critical detachment with particular attention paid to the post Cold War period during which each agency has needed to re think the impact of globalisation on both its modes of operation as well as the content of its education policies Just as education policy itself has been subject to the impact of globalisation so to has each agency had to adapt at a time when not only education but also their own mandates have been thrown open to question This timely book will be essential reading for all those working with and for UN agencies foreign aid workers and the development co operation industry At a time when education policies budgets and strategies appear wide open to profound changes this book will provide a much needed roadmap to the future

Education, Poverty and the World Bank Philip W. Jones, 2006 This book explains why the World Bank's commitment to education is important It considers how the nature of the Bank as a financial institution has shaped its view of economic growth development and poverty reduction In shaping its education policies and programs from a banking point of view a particular World Bank approach to educational development has emerged with major implications for the future of education worldwide The book examines the reasons why the Bank is involved in education the evolution of its education policy stances and how the Bank uses education as part of its program of economic globalisation The author provides a framework for assessing the Bank's impact and effectiveness in its education lending especially in terms of poverty reduction Bank work in education is hugely controversial All around the world in industrial countries in transition economies and in the poorest countries the Bank continues to be under fire for its policy prescriptions and its modes of operation From both left and right the Bank is a major target of discontent At the same time the Bank is frequently misunderstood and misrepresented The book is based on thousands of classified Bank documents examined over the past twenty years and on wide ranging interviews with past and present Bank officials Although critical of many aspects of Bank work in education the book will be recognised as a uniquely authoritative guide to Bank policy formation in education Back cover

The Scent of the Father Valentin-Yves Mudimbe, 2022-11-09 Valentin Yves Mudimbe is a Congolese philosopher novelist poet essayist and academic widely considered to be one of the most important African thinkers of his generation The ideas and arguments he has developed in his writings since the 1970s including The Invention of Africa have been hugely influential across many disciplines and established his reputation as one of the essential postcolonial thinkers of our time In The Scent of the Father Mudimbe set himself the task of shedding light on the complex links that bind Africa to the West and determine the exercise of thought and knowledge practices particularly in relation to the social sciences For Africa to escape the West says Mudimbe it must become aware of what remains Western in the very concepts and forms of thought that allow it to think against the West and be alert to the possibility that the recourse against the West might be just another ruse that the West uses for its own ends Africa must elucidate the modalities of the integration of Africans into the myths of the West while at the same time aiming at the readaptation of the African psyche in the wake of the violence it has suffered This seminal work by a leading African thinker will be of great interest to anyone concerned with the legacies of colonialism and the debates on decolonization and decoloniality in the social and human sciences

Trade and Aid Burton I. Kaufman, 2019-12-01 Originally published in 1982 Trade and Aid outlines the transition of U S foreign policy during the Eisenhower administration In the years leading up to Eisenhower's election America's predominant foreign economic program was based on the concept of trade not aid which deemphasized foreign aid and relied instead on liberalized world trade and the encouragement of private foreign investment to assure world economic growth. When Eisenhower took office in 1953 he embraced this doctrine. However as problems in the Third World worsened it became clear to Eisenhower and other architects of American foreign policy that trade and private investment were insufficient solutions to the economic woes of developing nations. In 1954 Eisenhower began to embrace economic aid as a core axis of his foreign economic policy. Burton I Kaufman contextualizes Eisenhower's foreign policy leadership in the ongoing historical evaluation of Eisenhower's leadership prowess. He evaluates the outcomes of the Eisenhower administration's trade and aid program arguing that developing countries were worse off by the time Eisenhower left office.

New Ministries William R. Burrows, 2006-05-01 This is an exciting informed thoughtful and ground breaking book on one of the most vital and threatening issues facing the contemporary church. Father Burrows seeks effectively to show that the older forms of church and clerical life developed in the West are both irrelevant and stultifying when transferred in to the Third World and that as a consequence new forms of church and clerical life forms still within the Catholic heritage to which he affirms must be developed if the church is long to survive in that new world. Frankly admitting that his suggestions are only the beginning and by no means final Burrows nevertheless makes crystal clear the need for more open attitudes towards the forms of church and the need for more open attitudes towards the forms of church and clergy if the newer churches are to become genuinely creative forces in the Third World rather than lingering embassies from the First World. I found the work exceedingly stimulating the approach fresh and open and his suggestions more than worthy of careful thought by all those concerned with the Church in a global context. Langdon Gilkey Shailer Mathews Professor of Theology University of Chicago Divinity School. New Ministries deals with topics of vital concern for the Christian churches and it does so in a way that will catch and keep the reader's interest. Burrows handles this rather explosive topic with personal sensitivity and with scholarly care. Paul F Knitter Professor of Theology Xavier. Exchange Of Expertise Irving J. Spitzberg, 2019-04-11 The vision of the New International Order emphasizes justice and equality. It also raises profound questions about the nature and future of the relationship between postindustrial and Third World countries. The counterpart system describes one aspect of this relationship: an expert from a postindustrial country teaches a special skill to a Third World national. In this collection contributors draw on political science economics education sociology history and communications theory to illuminate the forces that shape the nature of the exchange of expertise between postindustrial and Third World countries. Each author raises theoretical points and offers practical observations about the future of this exchange: a critical point of contact in the New International Order. The British End of the British Empire Sarah Stockwell, 2018-08-30 How did decolonization impact on Britain itself? And how did Britain manage its transition from colonial power to postcolonial nation? Sarah Stockwell explores this question principally via the history of the overseas engagements of key institutions that had acquired roles within Britain's imperial system the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge the Bank of England the Royal Mint and the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst Using a huge range of fresh archival sources the author shows how these institutions fashioned new roles at the end of empire reconfiguring their activities for a postcolonial world and deploying their expertise to deliver technical assistance essential for the development of institutions in new Commonwealth states This study not only pioneers an entirely new approach to the history of the British end of the British empire but also provides an equally novel cross sectoral analysis of institution building during decolonization and highlights the colonial roots of British postcolonial aid
