From Ca To Cas Online:

eAccess to Justice Karim Benyekhlef, Jane Bailey, Jacquelyn Burkell, Fabien Gélinas, 2016-09-22 Part I of this work focuses on the ways in which digitization projects can affect fundamental justice principles. It examines claims that technology will improve justice system efficiency and offers a model for evaluating e justice systems that incorporates a broader range of justice system values. The emphasis is on the complicated relationship between privacy and transparency in making court records and decisions available online. Part II examines the implementation of technologies in the justice system and the challenges it comes with, focusing on four different technologies: online court information systems, e filing, videoconferencing, and tablets for presentation and review of evidence by jurors. The authors share a measuring enthusiasm for technological advances in the courts, emphasizing that these technologies should be implemented with care to ensure the best possible outcome for access to a fair and effective justice system. Finally, Part III adopts the standpoints of sociology, political theory, and legal theory to explore the complex web of values, norms, and practices that support our systems of justice, the reasons for their well established resistance to change, and the avenues and prospects of eAccess. The chapters in this section provide a unique and valuable framework for thinking with the required sophistication about legal change. Space Regulation in Canada: Past, Present and Potential Aram Daniel Kerkonian, 2021-03-24 Space is no longer the domain of national space agencies. Today a significant majority of space activities are carried out by non governmental entities, resulting in the accelerated evolution of space technologies and their applications. This operational shift from public to private does not mean, however, that governments are no longer relevant in this era of New Space. On the contrary, as the operational role of the state has diminished, its regulatory role has grown correspondingly. Acknowledging that the commercial landscape in space is an ever changing one, this book explores how the Canadian government has adapted to the new commercial space landscape and whether it is prepared to fulfil its authorisation and supervision responsibilities as the regulator of Canada's space industry. The fundamental research question posed therefore is whether Canada's regulatory framework is appropriate given the increasing commercialisation of space. To best answer this question, the book provides a doctrinal analysis of Canada's historical space policy and current space laws, an empirical survey of the perspectives of those currently interacting with Canada's regulatory framework, and a comparative exploration of how other jurisdictions oversee commercial space activities. Motivated by legal, moral, and economic considerations, the book recommends that Canada enact a comprehensive national space law and provides an annotated draft law for this purpose. By doing so, the book intends to spark a meaningful conversation on how Canada ought to fulfil its regulatory responsibilities, a topic previously unaddressed in public and academic discourse. CompTIA Security+ Deluxe Study Guide with Online Labs Mike Chapple, David Seidl, 2021-04-13

Chemical Information 2 Harry R. Collier, 2012-12-06 This volume contains the full text of twenty of the twenty one papers given at the Montreux 1990 International Chemical Information Conference in Montreux Switzerland between 24 and 26 September 1990 The one paper that is omitted was not received in time for incorporation in these Proceedings The papers reflect the diverse nature of chemical information an information field that has usually been in the forefront of applying new technology to solving information problems In many ways the electronic information revolution is still in its infancy during the Montreux conferences we intend to chart the dynamic interaction between chemical information and new technology One publishing problem with an information field that moves so rapidly is the constant need to make printed information available within weeks or months of it being written The majority of papers in this volume were written during the period May July 1990 Conventional publishing of course allows authors time to proof read their texts to make changes and corrections and allows time for the contents to be indexed extensively Time however is a luxury in the case of conference proceedings in the area of chemical pharmaceutical and patent information at the beginning of the 1990s We hope readers will appreciate the necessary trade off that has had to take place between text thoroughly prepared revised indexed and corrected and text that is available for general readership soon after it was written
