Mao Tse-Tung's Theory of Dialectic F.Y.K. Soo,2012-12-06 The year 1979 ushered in a new phase in China's long and continuous revolution. Currently this new phase is being symbolically referred to by the Chinese leaders themselves as the New Long March, a continuation of the legendary and historical Long March in terms of modernization which comprises the Four Modernizations: Agriculture, Industry, Science and Technology, and Military Defense. Such an all-encompassing attempt at modernization may appear to some at least to be something new or may indicate a radical shift in her policy. But upon closer examination this decision seems only to reflect an historical continuity in terms of the two major long-term goals of the Chinese Revolution: national independence and modernization or industrialization. The former would make China strong; the latter wealthy. For ever since the Opium War in 1840 and throughout the Revolutions of 1911 and 1949, China has always pursued these two revolutionary goals, though with different emphases at different times. This has been especially true during the past three decades as this twofold goal has dictated all of China's important policies, both domestic and foreign. In other words, while the concrete policies may have appeared to be lacking in unity at times, they have been formulated with the specific intent of achieving national independence and modernization. From this perspective, the New Long March marks the passage of post-Mao China beyond the transition of succession toward the continued pursuit of the same revolutionary goals.

Critical Perspectives on China's Economic Transformation ,2007 China's socialism and especially China's three decades-long experiment in building socialism has been an issue of much interest and debate among scholars as well as practicing Marxists in India and elsewhere. They also confront the realities of post-Mao China and how these have been impacting the lives of the peasants and workers in that society as well as face the question of today's China being a development model for other third-world countries. In mid-2005 several editors of Critical Asian Studies (formerly the Bulletin of Concerned Asian Scholars) convened in a Roundtable to engage the issues raised by Martin Hart Landsberg and Paul Burkett in their book China and Socialism: Market Reforms and Class Struggle. Monthly Review Press, 2005. The articles published in this Roundtable along with a Rejoinder by Hart Landsberg and Burkett appeared in two issues of Critical Asian Studies, 37:3 and 4 in 2005. They along with an Introduction by Hari P. Sharma are reprinted here in Critical Perspectives on China's Economic Transformation in order to stimulate further discussion. As Hari P. Sharma writes in the Introduction: "It is our task to learn the positive and negative lessons from the Chinese experience and carry on with the task of fighting and defeating imperialism and its hold wherever we live as well as lend support to the struggles for national liberation and for socialism wherever they take place." Socialist Construction and Marxist Theory Philip Corrigan,1978-06-17      Women Writing Nature Barbara J. Cook,2008-01-01 Women Writing Nature addresses the question: Do women write about nature?

differently In the process the collection considers women s writings about the natural world in light of recent and current feminist and ecofeminist theory

The China Journals Hugh Trevor-Roper,2020-02-20 These private journals made available here for the first time record Hugh Trevor Roper s visit to the People s Republic of China in the autumn of 1965 shortly before the outbreak of the Cultural Revolution and describe the controversial aftermath of his journey on his return to England The visit was a catalogue of frustrations which he relates with the verve and irony of a master narrator who relished the human comedy His efforts to meet the real life and mind of China in whose history and politics he had long been interested were blocked at every turn by the resources of state propaganda and the claustrophobic attention of sullen Party guides The visit was arranged by the London based Society for Anglo Chinese Understanding which was ostensibly committed to the impartial interchange of culture and ideas It proved to be run by a Communist clique whose ruthless methods of control outwitted the well connected membership Back in England and with help from MI5 he resolved to get to the bottom of the society s affairs His investigations provoked a tumultuous public row which Trevor Roper no shirker of controversy zestfully traces in these pages Through the book which closes with an account of his visit to Taiwan and South East Asia in 1967 there run the wisdom of historical perspective that he brought to contemporary events and his lifelong commitment to the defence of liberal values and practices against their ideological adversaries
