Griot Potters of the Folona Barbara E. Frank, 2022-02-02 Griot Potters of the Folona reconstructs the past of a particular group of West African women potters using evidence found in their artistry and techniques The potters of the Folona region of southeastern Mali serve a diverse clientele and firing thousands of pots weekly during the height of the dry season Although they identify themselves as Mande the unique styles and types of objects the Folona women make and more importantly the way they form and fire them are fundamentally different from Mande potters to the north and west Through a brilliant comparative analysis of pottery production methods across the region especially how the pots are formed and the way the techniques are taught by mothers to daughters Barbara Frank concludes that the mothers of the potters of the Folona very likely came from the south and east marrying Mande griots West African leatherworkers who are better known as storytellers or musicians as they made their way south in search of clientele as early as the 14th or 15th century CE While the women may have nominally given up their mothers identities through marriage over the generations the potters preserved their maternal heritage through their technological style passing this knowledge on to their daughters and thus transforming the very nature of what it means to be a Mande griot This is a story of resilience and the continuity of cultural heritage in the hands of women      Climate Change and Socio-Ecological Transformation Kousik Das Malakar, Manish Kumar, Subhash Anand, Gloria Kuzur, 2023-07-19 This book focuses on various psycho social and socio physical aspects of climate change and includes a wide range of case studies Included topics are notable climate related social thinking climate vulnerability transformation in socio ecological subsystems bioclimatological urban bioclimatological and socio bioclimatic ideas disasters policy instruments climate justice human rights and sustainability The book distinguishes itself from similar works by including a wide variety of topics and assists policy management in the current and upcoming climate crisis era This book also addresses the Sustainable Development Goals 13 Take Urgent Action to Combat Climate Change and Its Impacts highlighting resilience recovery potential and adaptive capacity climate change measures integrated into policies and planning and knowledge and capacity to mitigate climate change The ideas covered in this book evolved in response to the current climate crisis ideas that the authors believe will aid in societal management and development in the present and future The book is a useful source for planners geographers professionals academics government officials laypeople and others interested in climate change      Proceedings of the Linnean Society of New South Wales Linnean Society of New South Wales, 1928      Environmentalism: An Evolutionary Approach Douglas Spieles, 2017-12-04 The premise of this book is that our environmental dilemmas are products of biological and sociocultural evolution and that through an understanding of evolution we can reframe debates of thought and action The purpose is to explain the wide variety of environmental worldviews their origins commonalities points of contention and their implications for the modern environmental movement In three parts covering the origins evolution and future of environmentalism it offers instructors and students a framework on which to map theory case studies and classical literature It is shown that environmentalism can be described in terms of six human values utility stability equity beauty sanctity and morality and that these are deeply rooted in our biological and cultural origins In building this case the book draws upon ecology philosophy psychology history biology economics spirituality and aesthetics but rather than consider these all independently it integrates them to craft a mosaic narrative of our species and its home From our evolutionary origins a story emerges it is the story of humankind how we have come to threaten our own existence and why we seem to have such difficulty in acting together to ensure our common future Understanding our environmental problems in evolutionary terms gives us a way forward It suggests an environmentalism in which material views of human life include spirituality in which our anthropocentric behaviors incorporate ecological function and in which environmental problems are addressed by the intentional relation of humans to the nonhuman world and to one another Aimed at students taking courses in environmental studies the book brings clarity to a complex and at times confusing array of ideas and concepts of environmentalism
