Spencer, 2001-02 As boomers move towards retirement the phenomenon of population aging has become a much publicized issue Independence and Economic Security in Old Age focuses on the economic and social implications of aging at the level of the individual and of society as a whole The product of a three year research program the book contains chapters by recognized experts in the fields of economics and econometrics sociology social work medicine epidemiology gerontology and nursing The book first looks at some basic demographic issues including the definition of old the changing age distribution of the population and the demographic outlook for the next several decades It then moves into the area of family relations health and economic security The concept of independence among the elderly is examined and the degree of preparedness for old age by different elderly or soon to be elderly cohorts is considered The measurable social contributions of the elderly are also discussed in juxtaposition with the benefits they receive The book continues with an examination of the saving behaviour of the elderly the appropriateness of the Consumer Price Index as a measure of inflation the incomes of older women and how the tax transfer system affects the incentives of Canadians to save for retirement Comprehensive and innovative in its consideration of the issues and implications of aging this book will be a valuable resource for specialists and non specialists interested in issues of population aging for students of gerontology economics sociology health studies social work and women's studies and for social planners and policy makers

Economic security in an aging population Robert L. Brown, 1991 Aging, Economic Growth, and Old-age Security in Asia Donghyun Park, Sang-Hyop Lee, Andrew Mason, 2012-01-01 Population aging is perhaps the single biggest economic and social obstacle confronting Asia's future The region wide demographic transition towards an older population is fundamentally reshaping the demographic landscape and is giving rise to two key socio economic challenges This timely book provides an in depth analysis of these challenges and presents concrete policy options for tackling them First the expert contributors argue Asia must find ways to sustain rapid economic growth in the face of less favorable demographics which implies slower growth of the workforce Second they contend Asia must find ways to deliver affordable adequate and sustainable old age economic security for its growing elderly population Underpinned by rigorous analysis a wide range of concrete policy options for sustaining economic growth while delivering economic security for the elderly are then presented These include Asia wide policy options relevant to the entire region such as building up strong national pension systems whilst other policy options are more relevant to sub groups of countries This stimulating and informative book will be of great interest to academics students and researchers with an interest in Asian studies economics generally and more specifically public sector economics
