Liberalism against Liberalism Javier Aranzadi,2006-04-18 The defence of the market and economic freedom have been the main objectives of the investigations by liberal thinkers such as Milton Friedman Gary Becker F Hayek and L Von Mises Bearing in mind that the first two economists are the maximum exponents of the Chicago School and the last two of the Austrian School it is often concluded that the theories of both schools are similar This book demonstrates that in reality there is no convergence or complementariness to be found between both schools of thought The anthropological categories contributed by Mises allow us to understand all human phenomena from the view of the man who acts In this view economics is part of a philosophical system whose core is the creative capacity of people Becker s work on the other hand is concentrated on the generalization of the homo economicus as the basis for explaining all human behaviour

He generalizes the maximizing principle to explain all human reality and extends the scope of the application of a so called scientific and technical view of the world In this key volume an important read for those in the fields of economic theory and political economy Javier Aranzadi argues in essence that the tradition of Hayek and Mises encourages a humanistic liberalism whereas the Chicago School proposes only a technical humanism

The Economics of Urban Property Markets Paschalis Arvanitidis,2014-08-13 This book examines the relationship between the property market and urban economy The stimulus for this work was provided by the seemingly ever accelerating process of urban economic change and the noticeable failure of existing studies to adequately explore the pivotal role that the property market plays in this process Drawing on institutional economics the central argument of the book is that the property market as an institution is a mediator through which urban economic potential can be realised and served In developing this argument the book provides a critical realist ontological framework that advances understanding of the institutional structure of the economy and the complex interrelation between the institutional environment and human agency as well as a holistic theoretical framework of urban economic change where appropriate emphasis is placed on the specific mechanisms processes and dynamics through which the built environment is provided Arvanitidis also explores an institutional conceptualisation of property market efficiency defined in terms of the ability of the market institution to adapt its structure and to provide outcomes that the economy requires To inform empirical research on the developed concepts the book also offers a generic analytical approach specifying appropriate research methods and techniques for investigation along with a specific research design providing an operational framework that translates developed theory into empirical practice The book s primary contribution therefore lies in its delineation of a holistic research programme to conceptualise the property market as an institution and to explore its role within the urban economy
