Catherine Mas, 2022-11-22 After the 1959 Cuban Revolution hundreds of thousands of Cuban refugees came to Miami With this influx the city s health care system was overwhelmed not just by the number of patients but also by the differences in culture Mainstream medicine was often inaccessible or inadequate to Miami's growing community of Latin American and Caribbean immigrants. Instead, many sought care from alternative, often unlicensed health practitioners. During the 1960s, a recently arrived Cuban feeling ill might have visited a local clínica, a quasi-legal storefront doctor's office, or a santero, a priest in the Afro-Cuban religion of Lukum or Santería. This exceptionally diverse medical scene would catch the attention of anthropologists who made Miami's multiethnic population into a laboratory for cross-cultural care. By the 1990s, the medical establishment in Miami had matured into a complex and culturally informed health delivery system generating models of care that traveled far beyond the city. Some clínicas had transformed into lucrative HMOs. Santería became legally protected by the courts, and medical anthropology played a significant role in the rise of global health. Catherine Mas shows how immigrants reshaped American medicine while the clinic became a crucial site for navigating questions of wellness, citizenship, and culture.

Devotional Cross-Roads Hedwig Röckelein, Galit Noga-Banai, Lotem Pinchover, 2019. The collection of essays presented in Devotional Cross Roads: Practicing Love of God in Medieval Gaul, Jerusalem, and Saxony investigates test case witnesses of Christian devotion and patronage from Late Antiquity to the Late Middle Ages, set in and between the Eastern and Western Mediterranean as well as Gaul and the regions north of the Alps. Devotional practice and love of God refer to people mostly from the lay and religious elite; ideas, copies of texts, images, and material objects such as relics and reliquaries. The wide geographic borders and time span are used here to illustrate a broad picture composed around questions of worship, identity, religious affiliation, and gender. Among the diversity of cases, the studies presented in this volume exemplify recurring themes which occupied the Christian believer, such as the veneration of the Cross, translation of architecture, pilgrimage, and patronage, emergence of iconography, and devotional patterns. These essays are representing the research results of the project Practicing Love of God: Comparing Women's and Men's Practice in Medieval Saxony, guided by the art historian Galit Noga-Banai, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, and the historian Hedwig Röckelein, Georg-August-Universität Göttingen. This project was running from 2013 to 2018 within the Niedersachsen-Israeli Program and financed by the State of Lower Saxony.
