

A black and white photograph of a coastal landscape. In the foreground, there is a dark, rocky shoreline with some vegetation. The middle ground shows a body of water with small waves. In the background, there are several layers of mountains, creating a sense of depth and mist. The overall tone is serene and contemplative.

Health And The Inner Life:

Health And The Inner Life Horatio W. Dresser, 2014-01-14 In this volume two purposes have been fulfilled it applies to the problems of human suffering a practical spiritual philosophy of the Inner Life and it contains a discriminative exposition of the rational principles which underlie the mental healing movement With these ends in view it was thought best to revise and incorporate portions of the The Philosophy of P P Quimby and Methods and Problems of Spiritual Healing The book contains valuable quotations from the manuscripts of Julius A Dresser and an exposition of the teachings in which he and other pioneers restated the theories of Mr Quimby There are abundant data for all who wish to settle the question of the real vs the alleged founder of the movement although the book is not at all controversial As a whole the book contains the first adequate statement of the parent doctrine and it will especially aid those who wish to estimate the permanent worth of mind cure teachings

Health and the Inner Life; an Analytical and Historical Study of Spiritual Healing Theories, with an Account of the Life and Teachings of P. P. Quimby Horatio Willis Dresser, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1906 edition Excerpt The general purpose of these explanations was to produce a consciousness of one's actual situation in life with all its subtler influences and conditions then make clear the wisdom of the situation by showing the real intent of human experience It seemed necessary to bring to light the hidden effects of fear sometimes spoken of as the backbone of disease in order to clear the way for the realisation of spiritual ideals

The fear of death was found to be the most persistent of all hence to displace it by showing that we are already sons of God members of an eternal order was in very truth to prepare the way for a new mode of practical life Thus the discussions gradually enlarged in scope from the relatively superficial considerations in regard to the power of thought to the fundamental principles of a comprehensive spiritual philosophy of life It was pointed out that the healing of disease was merely preparatory to the larger ideals of Christian living The impression produced by the lectures was deeply religious With the teachers the work of healing had always been part of the consecrated life Hence it was natural that much stress should be put upon the religious bearings of the general doctrine For the teachers the restoration to health by spiritual means had meant an entire change in thought and life To their followers the new teachings seemed no less revolutionary Their followers became their friends and out of this new bond came a strong impulse towards practical spiritual living To one who had been born and reared in a home where such principles had been the basis of all thought and conduct so that spiritual help was always the aid sought whether in times of illness or of sorrow the teachings came with special

Health and the Inner Life Horatio Willis Dresser, 2017-09-08 Excerpt from Health and the Inner Life An Analytical and Historical Study of Spiritual Healing Theories With an Account of the Life and Teachings of P P Quimby A simple illustration will show the difference between the man who is at home in his mental world and the one who is without inner resources Let it be a typical case of the approach of sudden illness or simply the presence of a slightly painful sensation with which the mind unwittingly associates the name of a dreaded disease with all its terrors The man who has no staying power no knowledge of his inner self is swept forward by the consciousness of sensation a description of which he communicates to a physician who in turn is compelled to judge the case from the outside By skilful questioning many doctors are indeed able to work their way as it were well into the interior of a patient's life Yet all this is relatively external Even in cases of so called mental disease the physician very naturally judges the mental states by their physiological conditions Important as this judgment may be there is still another story to be told About the Publisher Forgotten
