

A black and white photograph of a rocky beach. The foreground is filled with numerous flat, smooth rocks of various sizes, some of which are wet and reflective. In the middle ground, a group of people are walking along the shoreline. The ocean extends to the horizon under a cloudy sky. A thick, horizontal orange-red line is visible at the very top of the image, likely a scanning artifact or a design element.

Flannery Burke, 2016-01-22 They all came to Taos Georgia O Keefe D H Lawrence Carl Van Vechten and other expatriates of New York City Fleeing urban ugliness they moved west between 1917 and 1929 to join the community that art patron Mabel Dodge created in her Taos salon and to draw inspiration from New Mexico s mountain desert and primitive peoples As they settled their quest for the primitive forged a link between authentic places and those who called them home In this first book to consider Dodge and her visitors from a New Mexican perspective Flannery Burke shows how these cultural mavens drew on modernist concepts of primitivism to construct their personal visions and cultural agendas In each chapter she presents a place as it took shape for a different individual within Dodge s orbit From this kaleidoscope of places emerges a vision of what place meant to modernist artists as well as a narrative of what happened in the real place of New Mexico when visitors decided it was where they belonged Expanding the picture of early American modernism beyond New York s dominance she shows that these newcomers believed Taos was the place they had set out to find and that when Taos failed to meet their expectations they changed Taos Throughout Burke examines the ways notions of primitivism unfolded as Dodge s salon attracted artists of varying ethnicities and the ways that patronage was perceived by African American writers seeking publication Anglos seeking authentic material Native American artists seeking patronage or Nuevomexicanos simply seeking respect She considers the notion of competitive primitivism especially regarding Carl Van Vechten and offers nuanced analyses of divisions within northern New Mexico s arts communities over land issues and of the ways in which Pueblo Indians spoke on their own behalf Burke s book offers a portrait of a place as it took shape both aesthetically in the imaginations of Dodge s visitors and materially in the lives of everyday New Mexicans It clearly shows that no people or places stand outside the modern world and that when we pretend otherwise those people and places inevitably suffer and the Crisis of Marriage Vivien Green Fryd, 2003 Between the two world wars middle class America experienced a marriage crisis that filled the pages of the popular press Divorce rates were rising birthrates falling and women were entering the increasingly industrialized and urbanized workforce in larger numbers than ever before while Victorian morals and manners began to break down in the wake of the first sexual revolution Vivien Green Fryd argues that this crisis played a crucial role in the lives and works of two of America s most familiar and beloved artists Georgia O Keefe 1887 1986 and

Edward Hopper 1882 1967 Combining biographical study of their marriages with formal and iconographical analysis of their works Fryd shows how both artists expressed the pleasures and perils of their relationships in their paintings Hopper s many representations of Victorian homes in sunny tranquil landscapes for instance take on new meanings when viewed in the context of the artist s own tumultuous marriage with Jo and the widespread middle class fears that the new urban multidwelling homes would contribute to the breakdown of the family Fryd also persuasively interprets the many paintings of skulls and crosses that O Keeffe produced in New Mexico as embodying themes of death and rebirth in response to her husband Alfred Stieglitz s long term affair with Dorothy Norman Art and the Crisis of Marriage provides both a penetrating reappraisal of the interconnections between Georgia O Keeffe s and Edward Hopper s lives and works as well as a vivid portrait of how new understandings of family gender and sexuality transformed American society between the wars in ways that continue to shape it today

Seven Tales of Blood and Beauty Wayne Kyle Spitzer, 2018-03-08 Take the fatal shot said Horseshoe He must have laid down his rifle because I remember him helping to steady my own Easy now you ll own this forever I stared the thing in the eye and squeezed the trigger It threw back its head rising up It gasped for breath spitting more blood It barked at the sky Then it fell head thumping against the deck Its serpentine neck slumped The rest of its blood spread over the boards and rolled around our boots and flowed between the planks I was the first to step forward looking down at the thing through drifting smoke Its remaining eye seemed to look right back I got down on my knees to look closer The thing exhaled causing the breathing holes at the top of its head behind its eyes to bubble I waited for it to inhale staring into its eye I could see myself there as well as the others could see the sky and the scattered clouds The whole world seemed contained in that moist little ball Then the eye rolled around white it shrunk drying and the thing s neck constricted And it died Horseshoe slapped my back massaged my neck How s it feel little buddy But I didn t know what I felt I could only stare at the eye now empty
