Contemporary Women's Fiction and the Fantastic L. Armitt, 2000-04-14 This volume examines a wide variety of the ways in which the fantastic has impacted upon contemporary women s fiction Some of the issues addressed include the importance of the cyborg and the spectre to critical and fictional discourses of gender the interface between the grotesque and contemporary readings of feminist utopianism the growing similarity between late twentieth century gothicism and the magical real The study is based upon the work of fifteen writers and includes novels by Allende Atwood Carter Head Morrison Weldon Winterson and Wittig

The Encyclopedia of Fantasy John Clute, John Grant, 1999-03-15 Like its companion volume The Encyclopedia of Science Fiction this massive reference of 4 000 entries covers all aspects of fantasy from literature to art

Translating the Nonhuman Douglas Robinson, 2024-10-17 Extends the field of translation studies and theory by examining three radical science fiction treatments of translation The so called fictional turn in translation studies has staked out territory previously unclaimed by translation scholars territory in which translators are portrayed as full human beings in their social environments but so far no one has looked to science fiction for truly radical explorations of translation Translating the Nonhuman fills that gap exploring speculative attempts to cross the yawning chasm between human and nonhuman languages and cultures The book consists of three essays each bringing a different theoretical orientation to bear on a different science fiction work The first studies Samuel R Delany's 1966 novel Babel 17 using Peircean semiotics the second studies Suzette Haden Elgin's 1984 novel Native Tongue using Austinian performativity and Eve Sedwick's peripformative corrective and the third studies Ted Chiang's 1998 novella Story of Your Life and its 2016 screen adaptation Arrival using sustainability theory Themes include the 1950s clash between Whorfian untranslatability and the possibility of unbounded machine translatability the performative ability of a language to change reality and the reliance of that ability on the peripformativity of witnesses and alienation from the familiar in space and time and its transformative effect on the biological and cultural sustainability of human life on earth Through these close readings and varied theoretical approaches Translating the Nonhuman provides a tentative mapping of science fiction's usefulness for the study of human non human translation with translators and interpreters acting as explorers of new ways to communicate

The History of Science Fiction A. Roberts, 2005-11-28 The History of Science Fiction traces the origin and development of science fiction from Ancient Greece up to the present day The author is both an academic literary critic and acclaimed creative writer of the genre Written in lively accessible prose it is specifically designed to bridge the worlds of academic criticism and SF fandom

Masks Adam Lively, 2000 Lucidly written and encompassing an enormous historical expanse Masks uncovers the changing ways we have tried to understand the elusive and often illusory nature of racial identity in Western thought and literature

The History of Science Fiction Adam Roberts, 2016-08-04 This book is the definitive critical history of science fiction The 2006 first edition of this work traced the development of the genre from Ancient Greece and the European Reformation through to the end of the 20th century This new 2nd edition has been revised thoroughly and very significantly expanded An all new final chapter discusses 21st century science fiction and there is new material in every chapter a wealth of new readings and original research The author's groundbreaking thesis that science fiction is born out of the 17th century Reformation is here bolstered with a wide range of new supporting material and many hundreds of 17th and 18th century science fiction texts some of which have never been discussed before The account of 19th century science fiction has been expanded and the various chapters tracing the twentieth century bring in more writing by women and science fiction in other media including cinema TV comics fan culture and other modes Encyclopedia of the Novel Paul Schellinger, 2014-04-08

The Encyclopedia of the Novel is the first reference book that focuses on the development of the novel throughout the world. Entries on individual writers assess the place of that writer within the development of the novel form explaining why and in exactly what ways that writer is important. Similarly an entry on an individual novel discusses the importance of that novel not only from analyzing the particular innovations that novel has introduced and the ways in which it has influenced the subsequent course of the genre. A wide range of topic entries explore the history criticism theory production dissemination and reception of the novel. A very important component of the Encyclopedia of the Novel is its long surveys of development of the novel in various regions of the world The History of French Literature on Film Kate Griffiths, Andrew Watts, 2020-12-24

French novels plays poems and short stories however temporally or culturally distant from us continue to be incarnated and reincarnated on cinema screens across the world. From the silent films of Georges Méliès to the Hollywood production of Gustave Flaubert's Madame Bovary directed by Sophie Barthes. The History of French Literature on Film explores the key films directors and movements that have shaped the adaptation of works by French authors since the end of the 19th century. Across six chapters Griffiths and Watts examine the factors that have driven this vibrant adaptive industry as filmmakers have turned to literature in search of commercial profits cultural legitimacy and stories rich in dramatic potential. The volume also explains how the work of theorists from a variety of disciplines literary theory translation theory adaptation theory can help to deepen both our understanding and our appreciation of literary adaptation as a creative practice. Finally this volume seeks to make clear that adaptation is never a simple transcription of an earlier literary work. It is always simultaneously an adaptation of the society and era for which it is created. Adaptations of French literature are thus not only valuable artistic artefacts in their own right so too are they important historical documents which testify to the values and tastes of their own time Cinema of Exploration James Leo Cahill, Luca Caminati, 2020-12-29

Drawing together 18 contributions from leading international scholars this book conceptualizes the history and theory of cinema's century long relationship to modes of exploration in its many forms from colonialist expeditions to decolonial radical cinemas to the perceptual voyage of the senses made possible by the cinematic apparatus. This is the first anthology dedicated to analysing cinema's relationship to exploration from a global decolonial and ecological perspective. Featuring leading scholars working with pathbreaking interdisciplinary methodologies drawing on insights from science and technology studies postcolonial theory indigenous ways of knowing and film theory and history it theorizes not only cinema's implication in imperial conquest but also its cutting edge role in empirical expansion and experiments in sensual and critical perception. The collected essays consider filmmaking in cross cultural contexts and films made in or about peoples in South America Asia Africa Indigenous North America as well as polar outer space and underwater exploration with famous figures such as Jacques-Yves Cousteau alongside amateur and scientific filmmakers. The essays in this collection are ideal for a broad range of scholars graduate students and advanced undergraduate students in cinema and media studies cultural studies and cognate fields
