

garment, and especially when its finished edges! The usual wrap that is, the large square of linen or broadcloth worn as a summer evening wrap — is altogether safer, more to suit the taste by all ages, for formal and informal occasions. These wraps are only found in your catalog with contrasting borders and corners in dark neutral colors, or with draped or pleated panel edges. The danger in this instance is not so much in the choice of wrap, as in the manner of wearing it. Such a wrap must be worn both over and under, with an air of freedom about you, the air and freedom that is most its charm.

The wrap — an important factor in the collection — is a favorite for the designer. Though most of fashion figures after that time in
