Farmacología Ocular:

Farmacología ocular Josep Eladi Baños Díez,Marian March Pujol,2002 Farmacología ocular alcanza su segunda edición con el deseo de colaborar en el desarrollo de una disciplina que ha experimentado un notable avance en los últimos años. En la presente obra se revisan los principios básicos de la farmacología que permiten comprender cómo los medicamentos ejercen sus acciones así como los efectos terapéuticos e indeseables derivados de estas. También se analizan de forma detallada las propiedades de algunos grupos farmacológicos que son de uso frecuente por los profesionales dedicados al cuidado de la función ocular pero difíciles de encontrar en las obras de farmacología o de práctica. Farmacología ocular ofrece los conocimientos esenciales que precisan aquellos lectores que van a ejercer o ejercen su actividad profesional en el ámbito de la práctica y la optometría.

Consideraciones vasculares en el glaucoma S. Fabián Lerner, Alon Harris, 2012

Prefacio

El glaucoma de ángulo abierto (GAA) es una de las principales causas de daño visual a nivel mundial. La patogenia de la neuropatía óptica glaucomatosa sigue sin comprenderse del todo bien y se ha propuesto la coexistencia de varios mecanismos patológicos. A medida que la población mundial envejece, el GAA tendrá una mayor prevalencia y los avances en el diagnóstico y el tratamiento de la neuropatía óptica glaucomatosa serán de suma importancia para proteger y mejorar la calidad de vida de nuestra población en proceso de envejecimiento. El tratamiento del GAA ha estado enfocado a reducir la presión intraocular (PIO). Una estrategia terapéutica disponible actualmente para pacientes con glaucoma es la disminución de la PIO. Mientras que una amplia variedad de estudios han demostrado que reducir la PIO disminuye el riesgo de desarrollo y/o progresión del glaucoma, muchos estudios también han demostrado que algunos pacientes continúan perdiendo la vista a pesar de una reducción significativa de la PIO. Han habido varios intentos de dilucidar la etiología del deterioro de la neuropatía óptica glaucomatosa a pesar de niveles bajos de PIO. En las últimas décadas, los descubrimientos en la circulación ocular de pacientes con GAA han sido bien establecidos y podrán explicar la progresión continua de pacientes con GAA a pesar de tener una PIO reducida. El propósito de la presente publicación es proporcionar una perspectiva actualizada del flujo ocular sanguíneo y la desregulación vascular en el GAA. La importancia del tema fue demostrada por el foco de la sexta Reunión de Consenso de la Asociación Mundial de Glaucoma en 2009 que se concentró completamente en los déficits de flujo sanguíneo de los pacientes con GAA. A pesar de que se ha establecido una gran cantidad de conocimiento acerca de los factores de riesgo del glaucoma aún quedan preguntas por responder. Previamente se han mencionado los déficits de flujo sanguíneo a la progresión del glaucoma. De qué forma entra a tallar la presión de perfusión ocular en el paradigma de PIO y flujo sanguíneo. Que conclusiones pueden extraerse de la evidencia reciente que demuestra la fluctuación de los factores de riesgo para el GAA incluyendo PIO, presión sanguínea arterial y presión de perfusión ocular. Esperamos que este prospecto actualizado sirva como apoyo para investigaciones futuras diseñadas para responder esta y otras consideraciones importantes en el manejo del glaucoma.

Una universidad que se preocupa por formar a sus estudiantes no solo por educarlos, sino por realizar opciones. La Universidad de La Salle, fiel a sus principios inspiradores, que le apremian a ocuparse de la formación técnica y política de sus estudiantes, optó desde hace algunos años por realizar la Cátedra Institucional Lasallista. Este espacio valiente tanto en su formulación como en su implicación social, que lleva plantear una cátedra en estos tiempos como en las problemáticas abordadas, se ha venido constituyendo en una verdadera oportunidad para reflexionar acerca de la significatividad de la vida académica de la Universidad, pero ante todo de su capacidad de establecer vínculos comunicantes con otros actores de la dinámica social. En esta perspectiva, debe entenderse el presente en el marco de la Cátedra Institucional denominada "Cartografías de la paz: una mirada crítica al territorio". Bien es sabido que la Universidad de La Salle se ha posicionado en el ámbito nacional como una organización que ha apostado por la paz, tal como se han llevado a cabo los diferentes proyectos que cada unidad académica adelanta en torno a temas como el desarrollo humano integral y sustentable, la democratización del conocimiento, la investigación con transferencia social entre otros. Pero ante todo, por el proyecto Utopía iniciativa que busca influir positivamente en la vida de cientos de jóvenes que han padecido en carne propia los embates de la violencia armada.
