

was no agreement among respondents' ranking of the constraints is reported. The coefficient of concordance (W) showed that 72% of the respondents were in agreement with the rankings of the constraints. Insufficient supply of chemicals was identified as the most critical constraint, followed by inadequate spraying personnel. Favoritism by the spraying personnel was the least constraint.

The results are consistent with the findings of Abukwah et al (2018) who identified strategies to the cocoa mass spraying program to include insufficient supply of chemicals, misting of pesticides by sprayers and inadequate funds for spraying machines. They also reported that the government spraying program to control pests and diseases has not reached its full potential because it has not been able to fulfill its mandate of ensuring that cocoa farms are sprayed four times a year between July and November.

Another problem was inadequate spraying personnel. According to the farmers' the number of spraying personnel in the area is too small compared to the size of cocoa farms in the area. As much as 74% of the farmers mentioned the need for additional spraying personnel in their communities.

Constant breakdown of spraying machines delays spraying. In some instances, farmers are given the chemicals to spray their cocoa farms at their own cost. In addition, some farmers also reported that because the gangs were paid on the basis of area covered, they tended to spray as much acreage as possible instead of targeting the capids (insects) on the canopies. Farmers also identified theft of chemical sprays as a constraint. Discrimination and favoritism was the least constraint.

8. Conclusion

From a farmers' perspective, the government spraying program which was introduced to eradicate pests and diseases affecting cocoa production in the country has been ineffective in the study area as a result of problems facing the implementation of the program. Logistical problems, poor spraying and failure to follow the recommended spraying regime pose a big challenge to the successful implementation of the government spraying program in the district. There is therefore the need for the Government to ensure that right quantities of chemicals are made available at the right time to ensure an effective spraying regime. In addition, CODAPED must closely monitor the work of the spraying personnel to ensure that they do a thorough job.

African Political Economy in the Twenty-First Century Ernest T. Aniche, Stephen N. Azom, Emeka C. Iloh, 2023-09-12 African Political Economy in the Twenty First Century Theories Perspectives and Issues edited by Emeka C Iloh Ernest T Aniche and Stephen N Azom fills the gap in the discourses on African political economy from an African perspective Since the end of colonialism in the second half of the twenty first century a wide ranging debate has opened on the future of African development and the nature and character of its political economy especially as it concerns its web of relationships in the international political and economic system Two decades into the twenty first 21st century the debate still rages on and is likely to continue for a long time This book contributes to the debate by addressing the important question of how African countries can strategically and tactically approach global political economy at multilateral continental and regional levels in view of North South versus South South configurations African Political Economy in the Twenty First Century further suggests how African countries can effectively utilize global forces to Africa s advantage in advancing domestic regional and continental development objectives The Economic Roots of Conflict and Cooperation in Africa W. Ascher, N. Mirovitskaya, 2013-11-07 This book combines overviews of the nature and causes of inter group violence in North Africa and sub Saharan Africa with a collection of country case studies Both the overview chapter and the case studies trace how economic policy initiatives and consequent changes in the roles and statuses of various groups shape conflict or cooperation Enterprise and Economic Development in Africa Dina M. G. Hopkins, 2014-09-19 This is the standard account of the economic history of the vast area conventionally known as West Africa Ranging from prehistoric time to independence it covers the former French as well as British colonies Politics and Economics of Africa Frank H. Columbus, Olufemi Wusu, 2001 A continent of vast diversity stretching from the deserts of the north through the equatorial tropics into the more temperate south Africa brims with challenges and issues This book collects a series of papers examining a number of these topics and how they impact African nations the United States and the global community The analyses also present possible solutions to some of the continent s most vexing problems as many of its nations chart a course of political and economic development Economic Development of Africa, 1880-1939 vol 5 David Sunderland, 2017-09-29 One of the main motives for British imperialism in Africa was economic gain This collection examines the ways in which Britain developed Africa and in so doing benefited her own economy West Africa's Security Challenges Adekeye Adebajo, Ismail O. D. Rashid, 2004 Provides a context for understanding West Africa s security dilemmas highlighting the link between failures of economic development governance and democratization on the one hand and military insecurity and violent conflicts on the other Regional Economic Communities and Peacebuilding in Africa Victor Adetula, Redie Bereketeab, Cyril Obi, 2020-12-30 This book outlines challenges to the effective operation of regional economic communities RECs with regards to peacebuilding in Africa. Critically examining these issues from an interdisciplinary perspective with a focus on comparative analysis of the status, role and performances of the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS and Intergovernmental Authority on Development IGAD, it examines particular constraints to their effective participation in regional initiatives. Focussing on inadequate technical capabilities, the complicity of state and non-state actors in conflicts within a region, the domestic politics of member states, it additionally addresses related theories and practices of peacekeeping, security, development and the peacebuilding nexus. It also engages provisioning regionalism and regional peacekeeping interventions, the legal and institutional framework of RECs and civil society and peacebuilding. Fundamentally, the book asks how effective the alliances and partnerships are in promoting regional peace and security and how much they are compromised by the intervention of external powers and actors, exploring new ideas and actions that may strengthen capacities to address the peacebuilding challenges on the continent effectively. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of African politics and studies, peace and security studies, regionalism studies, policy practitioners in the field of African peacebuilding and more broadly to international relations. Goldman, 2024-11-29 This book examines the new geopolitical economy of football, exploring the intersection of money, politics and power in the world's most popular sport. Against a background of international conflict and the emergence of powerful new state actors in world sport, the book considers how football investments and events have become instruments of soft power and industrial development and how football plays an increasingly significant role in global politics and international relations. Featuring the work of leading researchers from around the world and case studies from five continents, the book examines key contemporary issues such as the Gulf States' interests in European soccer and debates around sportswashing and human rights, the global politics of artificial intelligence, AI in football and football's complex relationship with migration and identity in Africa and Latin America. It considers the seismic impact of Russia's invasion of Ukraine on the geopolitics of football, on the shifting landscape of the governance of football in Europe, the rise of Major League Soccer and the Messi effect and how the development of China and India into global economic superpowers is reflected in their vision for their domestic football leagues. The book also considers the importance of Fédération Internationale de Football Association (FIFA) and their commercial partners and stakeholders as geopolitical actors on the world stage. This is a fascinating read for anybody with an interest in sport, political economy, international politics, globalisation or development. Labour and Economic Change in Southern Africa c.1900-2000 Rory Pillosof, Andrew Cohen, 2021-06-03 This book explores the social and economic development of Zimbabwe, Zambia and

Malawi over the course of the twentieth century These three countries have long shared and interconnected pasts All three were drawn into the British Empire at a similar time and the formation of the ill fated Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland formally linked these countries together for a decade in the mid twentieth century This formal political relationship created dynamics that resulted in yet closer economic and social links After Federation the economic realities of industry transport and labour supplies meant that these three countries continued to be intricately interconnected Yet despite these connected pasts comparative work on the economic histories of Malawi Zambia and Zimbabwe and how these change over time is rare This book addresses the gap by providing the first comprehensive collection of labour and census data across the twentieth century for these three countries The different economic models and performances of these states offer good comparison allowing researchers to look at different models of development and how these played out over the long term The book provides data on population growth and change industrial and occupational structure and the various shifts in what the economically active population did It will be useful for historians economists development studies scholars and non governmental organisations working on twentieth century and contemporary southern Africa

The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2015-07-02 For a long time economic research on Africa was not seen as a profitable venture intellectually or professionally few researchers in top ranked institutions around the world chose to become experts in the field This was understandable the reputation of Africa centered economic research was not enhanced by the well known limitations of economic data across the continent Moreover development economics itself was not always fashionable and the broader discipline of economics has had its ups and downs and has been undergoing a major identity crisis because it failed to predict the Great Recession Times have changed many leading researchers including a few Nobel laureates have taken the subject of Africa and economics seriously enough to devote their expertise and creativity to it They have been amply rewarded the richness complexities and subtleties of African societies civilizations rationalities and ways of living have helped renew the humanities and the social sciences and economics in particular to the point that the continent has become the next major intellectual frontier to researchers from around the world In collecting some of the most authoritative statements about the science of economics and its concepts in the African context this handbook the first of two volumes opens up the diverse acuity of commentary on exciting topics and in the process challenges and stimulates the quest for knowledge Wide ranging in its scope themes language and approaches this volume explores examines and assesses economic thinking on Africa and Africa s contribution to the discipline The editors bring a set of powerful resources to this endeavor most notably a team of internationally renowned economists whose diverse viewpoints are complemented by the perspectives of philosophers political scientists and anthropologists Aging and Health in Africa Pranitha

Maharaj,2012-08-16 Population aging is a matter of global concern It often occurs in tandem with changes in the health profile of the population In Africa many countries are already facing a high burden of communicable diseases However as more and more children survive childhood and move on to adult years and old age they are also more likely to experience health problems associated with the aging process Population aging in Africa is occurring in the context of high levels of poverty changing family structures an immense disease burden fragile health systems and weak or poorly managed government institutions This book shows that aging is likely to lead to increased social and economic demands for the continent However most national governments in Africa have not begun to address the issue of how to respond effectively to the needs of the older population This will require a better understanding of the socio economic and demographic situation of the older population in Africa This book fills the gaps that exist by exploring the social realities of population aging in Africa It also focuses on the policy and programmatic responses gaps and future challenges related to aging across the continent
