What is Land For? Matt Lobley, Michael Winter, 2009-12 In recent decades agricultural commodity surpluses in the developed world have contributed to a mantra of land surplus in which set aside extensification alternative land uses and wilding have been key terms in debates over land Quite suddenly all this has changed as a consequence of rapidly shifting commodity markets Prices for cereals oil seeds and other globally traded commodities have risen sharply A contributor to this has been the shift to bioenergy cropping fuelled by concerns over post peak oil and climate change Agricultural supply chain interests have embraced the new environmentalism of climate change with enthusiasm proudly proclaiming the readiness of the industry to produce both food and energy crops and to do so with a neo liberal confidence in markets to determine the balance between food and non food crops in land use But policy and politics have not necessarily caught up with these market and industry led changes and some environmentalists are beginning to challenge the assumptions of the new productivism Is it necessarily the case they ask that agriculture s best contribution to tackling climate change is to grow bioenergy crops or invest in anaerobic digesters or make land over for windfarms Might not there be an equally important role in maximising the carbon sequestration or water holding properties of biodiverse land What is Land For tackles these key cutting edge issues of this new debate by setting out a baseline of evidence and ideas OECD Territorial Reviews:

Jones, Leah Morton, 2013-06-01 Place and Replace is a collection of recent interdisciplinary research into Western Canada that calls attention to the multiple political social and cultural labours performed by the concept of place The book continues a long standing tradition of situating questions of place at the centre of analyses of Western Canada s cultures pasts and politics while making clear that place is never stable universal or static The essays here confirm the interests and priorities of Western Canadian scholarship that have emerged over the past forty years and remind us of the importance of Indigenous peoples dispossession and colonialism of migration race and ethnicity of gender and women s experiences of the impact of the natural and built environment and the impact of politics and the state
