comprehends what the craven act of denying his love is costing both him and Therese and feels compelled to rectify his fault. He wants for them what all Therese's married cousins enjoy: the rich and myriad benefits of marriages based on acknowledged mutual love. Love he's discovered is too powerful a force to deny, leaving him wrestling with the conundrum of finding a way to convincingly reveal to Therese that he loves her without wrecking everything, especially the mutual trust they've built over the past five years.
