Mayhead, 2008-06-24 This book investigates the autobiographical writings of Barbara Jordan Patricia Schroeder Geraldine Ferraro Elizabeth Dole Wilma Mankiller Hillary Rodham Clinton Madeleine Albright and Christine Todd Whitman These eight women represent the diversity that permeates the cultural backgrounds life adventures and ideologies women bring to the political table From differences in race class and geographic location to variations in personal and family experiences religious beliefs and political ideology these women illustrate many of the divergent standpoints from which women craft their lives in the United States Each essay focuses on the autobiographical text as political discourse and therefore as an appropriate site for the rhetorical construction of a personal and civic self situated within local and national political communities The collection examines issues such as the intersection between the politicization of the private and the personalization of the public evident in the women's narratives the description of U S politics the women provide in their writings the ways in which the women's personal stories craft arguments about their political ideologies the strategies these women leaders employ in navigating the gendered double binds of politics and the manner in which the women's discourse serves to encourage, instruct and empower future women leaders. The analyses embody and explicate the political and rhetorical strategies these leaders employ in their efforts to act on their convictions, highlight the need for and reality of women's involvement in all levels of politics and serve as an impetus and inspiration for scholars and activists alike. Unconventional, Partisan, and Polarizing Rhetoric Jeanine E.

Kraybill, 2017-11-14 The rhetoric and political communication of the 2016 Presidential Election was arguably unconventional, partisan and polarizing, becoming a defining characteristic of the tone and feel of the campaign. In this volume we examine how rhetoric and various political communication strategies influenced and shaped the contours of the election and ultimately its outcome. Witnessing the most diverse electorate in U.S. political history, we look at how voters were primed for an anti-establishment outsider candidate and how various rhetorical and communication appeals were used to strategically engage different groups of voters and at times leave out or even scapegoat others. We also analyze how rhetoric and political communication shaped the debate on key issues such as climate change, immigration, national security, gender and representation. In an age where having a social media presence is an essential campaign tool, we examine how Twitter was used by candidates and its impact on the electorate and news coverage. Overall, we demonstrate that political rhetoric and communication is impactful, bearing electoral consequences and the potential for policy outcomes, giving the reader much to consider as we approach the next midterm and general election. Communicating Politics Mitchell S. McKinney, 2005

Half of our eligible citizens fail to cast a presidential ballot and many more than half routinely ignore state and local elections. Does this phenomenon point to a crisis of democracy or does such behavior simply reflect indifference or even contentment among the public? Should we be alarmed that so many of our citizens seem disinterested and unwilling to participate in the various activities and forms of association that constitute civic life? If we are concerned by such matters, what might be done to reengage those who are seemingly disengaged? This book explores these questions and examines the well-being of our civic condition at the beginning of the twenty-first century. Grounded in a communication perspective, we view the fundamental nature of a democracy as that of a civic dialogue, an ongoing conversation between our elected leaders or political candidates and the citizens they lead or wish to lead. Accordingly, the studies presented in this volume examine our civic sphere and the electoral process as a communicative interaction between elected officials, political candidates, the media and citizens.
