Person and Self-Value Max Scheler,2012-12-06 From the mysterious powers and forces peculiar to both individual and community that can turn our lives into either good or bad lives I wish to point to two such powers being at the same time different in their own nature and yet closely related to each other The powers that emerge from exemplary persons and leaders Understood as basic to both sociology and the philosophy of history it comes to us as no surprise that the problem of exemplary persons and leaders along with the questions of the qualities types selections and education of leaders forms of unison existing between leaders and their followers all of which belonging to the subdivisions of this problem must be a burning problem for a people whose historical leaders from all walks of life have in part been swept away by wars and revolutions This fact we also find in all salient epochs of history characterized more or less by changes in leadership It is precisely for this reason that in our own time every group appears to struggle ever so hard with this problem namely who their leaders should be This pertains equally to a group within a party to a class to occupations to unions to various schools or present day youth movements and even to religious and ecclesiastical groupings Beyond any comparison there is yearning everywhere for leadership

Midair Craig K. Collins,2016-09-01 Midair is a true account of one of the most remarkable tales of survival in the history of aviation a midair collision at 30 000 feet by two bomb laden B 52s over a category 5 super typhoon above the South China Sea during the outset of the Vietnam War Authored by Craig K Collins the nephew of B 52 pilot Maj Don Harten Midair is an historically important work that is about more than survival Interwoven through Harten's dramatic story of his million to one struggle against near certain death is a previously unexamined look at how America had developed an aerial battle plan that would likely have ended the Vietnam conflict in under a month during the late winter of 1965. Instead, the country's war planners and politicians veered off course and into a bloody eight-year quagmire. Harten was on the February 1965 top secret mission: a massive B-52 bombing raid of railways, supply depots, and airfields in and around Hanoi that was called off in mid-flight. That mission and battle plan was mothballed until Dec 18, 1972, when it was dusted off and dubbed Linebacker II, effectively ending the war within a week. Over 120 B-52s bombed Hanoi area military installations for eight consecutive days. As a result of the heavy bombing, the North Vietnamese declared a truce, attended peace talks in Paris in early January, and signed the Paris Peace Accords ending hostilities in Vietnam on Jan 27, 1973. It is the gripping tale of a young Air Force officer's first combat mission that instantly pulls the reader in and never lets up.
