Fables And Distances New And Selected Essays:

Fables and Distances John Haines, 1996 Fables and Distances showcases the full spectrum of the genius of John Haines Through essays and letters he reflects on the craft and value of poetry the arts and their influence in public life the creative spirit in art and literature and wilderness and nature Together these pieces act as an homage and tribute to this singular force in literature Literature and Belief, 2003 The Land's Wild Music Mark Tredinnick, 2011-04-14 The Land's Wild Music explores the home terrains and the writing of four great American writers of place Barry Lopez Peter Matthiessen Terry Tempest Williams and James Galvin In their work and its relationship with their home places Tredinnick an Australian writer searches for answers to such questions such as whether it's possible for a writer to make an authentic witness of a place how one captures the landscape as it truly is and how one joins the place in witness so that its lyric becomes one's own and enters into one's own work He asks what it might mean to enact an ecological imagination of the world and whether it might be possible to see the work and the writer as part of the place itself The work is a meditation on the nature of landscape and its power to shape the lives and syntax of men and women It is animated by the author's encounters with Lopez Matthiessen Williams and Galvin by critical readings of their work and by the author's engagement with the landscapes that have shaped these writers and their writing the Cascades Long Island the Colorado Plateau and the high prairies of the Rocky Mountains Tredinnick seeks the spring of nature writing deep in the nature of a place itself carried in a writer's wild self inside and resonated over and over again at the desk until it is a work in which the place itself sings

Imagination in Place Wendell Berry, 2010-01-10 Berry's latest collection of essays is the reminiscence of a literary life It is a book that acknowledges a lifetime of intellectual influences and in doing so positions Berry more squarely as a cornerstone of American literature A necessary book Here Berry's place as the grandfather of slow food or the prophet of rural living is not questioned This book ensures we understand the depth and breadth of Berry's art

In Imagination in Place we travel to the local cultures of several writers important to Berry's life and work from Wallace Stegner's great West and Ernest Gaines Louisiana plantation life to Donald Hall's New England and on to the Western frontier as seen through the Far East lens of Gary Snyder Berry laments today's dispossessed and displaced those writers and people with no home and no citizenship but he argues that there is hope for the establishment of new local cultures in both the practical and literary sense Rich with Berry's personal experience of life as a Kentucky agrarian the collection includes portraits of a few of America's most imaginative writers including James Still Hayden Carruth Jane Kenyon John Haines and several others

Placing John Haines James Perrin Warren, 2017-02-15 John Haines arrived in Alaska fresh out of the Navy in 1947 and established a homestead seventy miles southeast of Fairbanks. He stayed there nearly twenty-five years learning to live off the country hunting trapping fishing gathering berries and growing vegetables. Those years formed him as a writer the interior of Alaska and especially its boreal forest marking his poetry and prose and helping him find his unique voice. Placing John Haines the first book-length study of his work tells the story of those years but also of his later itinerant life as his success as a writer led him to hold fellowships and teach at universities across the country. James Perrin Warren draws out the contradictions inherent in that biography that this poet so indelibly associated with place and authentic belonging spent decades in motion and also sets Haines's work in the context of contemporaries like Robert Bly Donald Hall and his close friend Wendell Berry. The resulting portrait shows us a poet who was regularly reinventing himself and thereby generating creative tension that fueled his unforgettable work. A major study of a sadly neglected master Placing John Haines puts his achievement in compelling context

The World in Which We Occur Neil W. Browne, 2007-10-31 Understanding our environment American philosopher John Dewey considered all human endeavors to be continuous with the natural world. In his writings particularly Art as Experience 1934 Dewey insists on the primacy of the environment in aesthetic experience. Dewey's conception of environment includes both the natural and the man-made. Neil Browne highlights this notion in order to define what he terms pragmatist ecology a practice rooted in the interface of the cultural and the natural which he finds to be a significant feature of some of the most important ecological writing of the last century. To fully understand human involvement in the natural world Browne argues disciplinary boundaries must be opened up. This is primarily important between the arts and science with profound implications for the practice of democracy. The degradation of the physical environment and democratic decay for Browne are rooted in the same problem our persistent belief that humans are somehow separate from their physical environment. Browne probes the work of a number of major American writers through the lens of Dewey's philosophy. Among other texts he examines John Muir's My First Summer in the Sierra 1911 Sea of Cortez 1941 by John Steinbeck and Edward Ricketts Rachel Carson's three books about the sea Under the Sea Wind 1941 The Sea Around Us 1951 and The Edge of the Sea 1955 John Haines's The Stars the Snow the Fire 1989 Tarry Lopez's Arctic Dreams 1986 and Terry Tempest Williams's Refuge 1991. Together these texts with their combinations of scientific observation and personal meditation challenge the dichotomies to which we've become accustomed and affirm the values of a pragmatist ecology one in which ecological and democratic values go hand in hand

Writing America Keith Donohue, 2001-04 This edition of Writing America published by the Nat Endow for the Arts NEA features the work of 50 NEA Literature Fellowship winners one from each state who paint a vivid portrait of the U.S. in the last decades of the 20th cent. They evoke the magnificent spectrum of people places and experiences that define America. Their biographies and personal narratives are stories in and of themselves revealing each writer's own unique path to fulfill the call to write. The selections which include a mix of poetry and prose serve as inspiration to emerging writers and provide a glimpse of the tremendous vitality and diversity of contemporary American literature.

Another Place Andrew Elkins, 2002. Contending that many good poets live and write in the American West, Andrew Elkins suggests that the western landscape, be it New Mexico desert or Alaskan wilderness, shapes the work that is created there. The place's essence and spirit inevitably become part of the work that flows from the poet's creativity. Elkins examines the work of Peggy Pond Church, John Haines, Adrian C. Louis, Richard Hugo, Jane Hirshfield, and several cowboy poets. Texas Christian University Press.

Can Poetry Save the Earth? John Felstiner, 2009-04-01. In forty brief and lucid chapters, Felstiner presents those voices that have most strongly spoken to and for the natural world. Poets from the Romantics through Whitman and Dickinson to Elizabeth Bishop and Gary Snyder have helped us envision such details as ocean winds eroding and rebuilding dunes in the same breath, wild deer freezing in our presence, and a person carving initials on a still living stranded whale.

All Our Stories Are Here Brady Harrison, 2009-01-01. This wide-ranging collection of essays addresses a diverse and expanded vision of Montana literature, offering new readings of both canonical and overlooked texts. Although a handful of Montana writers such as Richard Hugo, A. B. Guthrie Jr., D. Arcy McNickle, and James Welch have received considerable critical attention, sizable gaps remain in the analysis of the state's ever-growing and ever-evolving canon. The twelve essays in All Our Stories Are Here not only build on the exemplary foundational work of other writers but also open further interpretative and critical conversations. Expanding on the critical paradigms of the past and bringing to bear some of the latest developments in literary and cultural studies, the contributors engage issues such as queer ambivalence in Montana writing, representations of the state in popular romances, and the importance of the University of Montana's creative writing program in fostering the state's literary corpus. The contributors also explore the work of writers who have not yet received their critical due, take new looks at old friends, and offer some of the first explorations of recent works by well-established artists. All Our Stories Are Here conveys a sense of continuity in the field of Western literary criticism while at the same time challenging conventional approaches to regional literature.

At Home on the Earth David Landis Barnhill, 1999-08-05. The physical earth is clearly under unprecedented siege, heated, toxified, scraped. But almost as if they were antibodies, the finest nature writers of any era have come forward to help in the fight. This anthology collects many of the most important at their most eloquent. May it ring and echo and do some good. Bill McKibben, author of The End of Nature. This is a stunning collection of vivid writing about landscapes and the people who inhabit them. The diverse narratives gathered here do more than describe hawks diving and twigs snapping; although the book has its share of moving accounts of the natural world, a concern to live responsibly in nature runs through this evocative anthology like a subterranean stream, and that moral impulse, together with the lively prose, makes this the best collection of nature writing I've seen. Thomas A. Tweed, editor of Retelling U.S. Religious History.
