A Cultural History of the Emotions in the Medieval Age Juanita Ruys, Clare Monagle, 2020-08-20 Our period opens at the end of the Roman Empire when intellectual currents are indebted to the Greek philosophical inheritance of Plato and Aristotle as well as to a Romanized Stoicism Into this mix entered the new and from 313CE imperially sanctioned religion of Christianity In art literature music and drama we find an increasing emphasis on the arousal of individual emotions and their acceptance as a means towards devotion In religion we see a move from the ascetic regulation of emotions to the affective piety of the later medieval period that valued the believer's identification with the Passion of Christ and the sorrow of Mary In science and medicine the nature and causes of emotions their role in constituting the human person and their impact on the same became a subject of academic inquiry Emotions also played an increasingly important public role evidenced in populace wide events such as conversion and the strategies of rulership Between 350 and 1300 emotions were transformed from something to be transcended into a location for meditation upon what it means to be human

Emotions in the Law School Emma Jones, 2019-08-23 Law schools are failing both their staff and students by requiring them to prize reason and rationality and to suppress or ignore emotions

Despite innovations in terms of both content and teaching techniques there is little evidence that emotions are effectively acknowledged or utilised within legal education. Instead law schools are clinging to an out dated and erroneous perception of emotions as at best irrational and at worst dangerous. In contrast to this educational and scientific developments have demonstrated that emotions are a fundamental inescapable part of learning teaching and skills development. Harnessing these emotions will therefore have a transformative effect on legal education and enable it to adapt to the needs and demands of the twenty first century. This book provides a theoretical overview of the role played by emotions in all aspects of the life of the law school. It explores the relationship emotions have with key traditional and contemporary approaches to legal education the ways in which emotions can be conceptualised their interaction with the politics and policies of legal education and their role within teaching and learning. The book also considers the importance of emotional wellbeing for both law students and legal academics. Overall this book argues for a more holistic form of legal education in which emotions play a valuable and valued role. This requires a new vision for law schools in which emotions are acknowledged and embedded at all levels institutional and personal.

A Cultural History of the Emotions in Antiquity Douglas Cairns, 2020-08-20. This volume provides an overview of some of the salient aspects of emotions and their role in life and thought of the Greco Roman world from the beginnings of Greek literature and history to the height of the Roman Empire. This is a wide remit dealing with a wide range of sources in two ancient languages and in the full range of contexts that are covered by the format of this series. The volume's chapters survey the emotional worlds of the ancient Greeks and Romans from multiple perspectives philosophical scientific medical literary musical theatrical religious domestic political art historical and historical. All chapters consider both Greek and Roman evidence ranging from the Homeric poems to the Roman Imperial period and making extensive use of both elite and non elite texts and documents including those preserved on stone papyrus and similar media and in other forms of material culture. The volume is thus fully reflective of the latest research in the emerging discipline of ancient emotion history.

Jesus' Emotions in the Fourth Gospel Stephen Voorwinde, 2005-11-01 This book seeks to discuss John's references to Jesus emotions in the light of the current debate regarding Johannine Christology The Fourth Gospel refers to Jesus love joy and zeal At times it also portrays him as troubled deeply moved and in tears Do these expressions of emotion underscore Jesus humanity or his divinity The study is set against the background of the emotions of God as found in earlier Jewish literature as well as against that of the emotions of Jesus in the Synoptics and the remainder of the New Testament Voorwinde argues that the covenant provides the most consistent perspective for viewing both the emotions of Yahweh in the Old Testament and the emotions of Jesus in the Gospels The Johannine Jesus is found to fulfil the hitherto incompatible roles of covenant Lord and covenant sacrifice Rather than being expressive only of his humanity Jesus emotions are also found to underscore his divinity This is due to the unique genius of this Gospel with its paradoxical presentation of Jesus whose divinity is manifested most eloquently in his weakness suffering and death Only his tears at the grave of Lazarus can be explained as a human emotion pure and simple All the other emotions because of their strong connections to the cross highlight both Jesus humanity and divinity albeit for various reasons and in highly nuanced ways JSNTS 284

The ^AEmotions in Early Chinese Philosophy Curie Virág, 2017-02-13 In China the debate over the moral status of emotions began around the fourth century BCE when early philosophers first began to invoke psychological categories such as the mind xin human nature xing and emotions qing to explain the sources of ethical authority and the foundations of knowledge about the world Although some thinkers during this period proposed that human emotions and desires were temporary physiological disturbances in the mind caused by the impact of things in the world this was not the account that would eventually gain currency The consensus among those thinkers who would come to be recognized as the foundational figures of the Confucian and Daoist philosophical traditions was that the emotions represented the underlying dispositional constitution of a person and that they embodied the patterned workings of the cosmos itself Curie Vir g sets out to explain why the emotions were such a central preoccupation among early thinkers situating the entire debate within developments in conceptions of the self the cosmos and the political order She shows that the mainstream account of emotions as patterned reality emerged as part of a major conceptual shift towards the recognition of natural reality as intelligible orderly and coherent The mainstream account of emotions helped to summon the very idea of the human being as a universal category and to establish the cognitive and practical agency of human beings This book the first intensive study of the subject traces the genealogy of these early Chinese philosophical conceptions and examines their crucial role in the formation of ethical political and cultural values in China

The Pragmatics of Managing Negative Emotions in a Chinese Context Rong Lei, 2024-09-19 Drawing from rich naturally occurring language data and synthesizing insights from the fields of interpersonal pragmatics and Chinese interpersonal communication this book presents a compelling exploration of the management of negative emotions through an interpersonal pragmatics lens The volume seeks to answer a number of key questions at the intersection of these two fields including how do negative interpersonal emotions manifest in the context of Chinese culture What connections exist between emotions and interpersonal dynamics In what ways are these emotions intertwined with the moral framework of Chinese society How are such negative emotions effectively navigated and regulated The analysis goes beyond mere examination of emotional expressions delving into the cultural nuances that shape the understanding and handling of emotions The book elucidates for instance how unmet ganqing expectations can trigger emotions like anger and sadness and in turn the employment of rapport management strategies in their mitigation The book provides profound insights into a previously overlooked and little understood area of study making it of interest to students and researchers in pragmatics discourse analysis communication studies and psychotherapy

The Janus-Face of Language: Where Are the Emotions in Words and the Words in Emotions? Cornelia Herbert, Thomas Ethofer, Andreas J. Fallgatter, Peter Walla, Georg Northoff, 2018-09-28 Language has long been considered independent from emotions In the last few years however research has accumulated empirical evidence against this theoretical belief of a purely cognitive based foundation of language In particular through research on emotional word processing it has been shown that processing of emotional words activates emotional brain structures elicits emotional facial expressions and modulates action tendencies of approach and avoidance probably in a similar manner as processing of non verbal emotional stimuli does In addition it has been shown that emotional content is already processed in the visual cortex in a facilitated manner which suggests that processing of emotional language content is able to circumvent in depth semantic analysis Yet this is only one side of the coin Very recent research putting words into context suggests that language may also construe emotions and that by studying word processing one can provide a window to one's own feelings All in all the empirical observations support the thesis of a close relationship between language and emotions at the level of word meaning as a specific evolutionary achievement of the human species As such this relationship seems to be different from the one between emotions and speech where emotional meaning is conveyed by nonverbal features of the voice But what does this relationship between written words and emotions theoretically imply for the processing of emotional information The present Research Topic and its related articles aim to provide answers to this question This book comprises several experimental studies investigating the brain structures and the time course of emotional word processing Included are studies examining the affective core dimensions underlying affective word processing and studies that show how these basic affective dimensions influence word processing in general as well as the interaction between words feelings and expressive behavior In addition new impetus comes from studies that on the one hand investigate how task sublexical and intrapersonal factors influence emotional word processing and on the other hand extend emotional word processing to the domains of social context and self related processing Finally future perspectives are outlined including research on emotion and language acquisition culture and multilingualism In summary this textbook offers scientists from different disciplines insight into the neurophysiological behavioral and subjective mechanisms underlying emotion and language interactions It gives new impulses to existing theories on the embodiment of language and emotion and provides new ways of looking at emotion cognition interactions
