Preventing Violence Against Women and Children Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Forum on Global Violence Prevention, 2011-09-12 Violence against women and children is a serious public health concern with costs at multiple levels of society Although violence is a threat to everyone women and children are particularly susceptible to victimization because they often have fewer rights or lack appropriate means of protection In some societies certain types of violence are deemed socially or legally acceptable thereby contributing further to the risk to women and children In the past decade research has documented the growing magnitude of such violence but gaps in the data still remain Victims of violence of any type fear stigmatization or societal condemnation and thus often hesitate to report crimes The issue is compounded by the fact that for women and children the perpetrators are often people they know and because some countries lack laws or regulations protecting victims Some of the data that have been collected suggest that rates of violence against women range from 15 to 71 percent in some countries and that rates of violence against children top 80 percent These data demonstrate that violence poses a high burden on global health and that violence against women and children is common and universal Preventing Violence Against Women and Children focuses on these elements of the cycle as they relate to interrupting this transmission of violence Intervention strategies include preventing violence before it starts as well as preventing recurrence preventing adverse effects such as trauma or the consequences of trauma and preventing the spread of violence to the next generation or social level Successful strategies consider the context of the violence such as family school community national or regional settings in order to determine the best programs

Behavioral and Emotional Disorders in Adolescents David A. Wolfe, Eric J. Mash, 2013-12-09. Systematic, authoritative, and timely, this is an outstanding reference and text for anyone working with or studying adolescents. More than 50 leading experts comprehensively review current knowledge on adolescent externalizing disorders, internalizing disorders, developmental disorders, personality and health-related disorders, gender identity, and sexual disorders, and maltreatment and trauma. Chapters identify the core features of each disorder, explore its etiology, course, and outcome, address diagnostic issues specific to adolescents, and describe effective assessment and treatment approaches. The book also provides an integrative conceptual framework for understanding both healthy and maladaptive adolescent development.

Transitions in the field of special education David L. Cameron, Ragnar Thygesen, 2015. The purpose of this book is to explore the phenomenon of transition as it relates to the field of special education within the Nordic countries of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland. First, the authors investigate transition in the field of special education with respect to historical developments and the shifting prominence of diverse guiding theories. Second, we examine the process of transition in a wide range of special education contexts, including transitions from home to school, school to work, and across other contexts and types of support. The target audience for the book includes authors and researchers in academic and government research institutions, professionals working in special education and related fields, as well as students at graduate and doctoral levels. There are 16 chapters with contributions from the editors and 15 other international authors: Jorun Buli Holmberg, David L. Cameron, Camilla Brurup, Dyssegaard, Niels Egelund, Astrid Birgitte Eggen, Britta Hannus, Gullmets, Camilla Herlofson, Maryann Jortveit, Velibor Bobo Kova, Ingrid Lund, Johan Malmqvist, David Mitchell, Sven Nilsen, Heidi Omdal, Kristina Ström, Ragnar Thygesen, and Anne Dorthe Tveit.

Handbook of Adolescent Health Risk Behavior Ralph J. DiClemente, William B. Hansen, Lynn E. Ponton, 2013-11-21
Adolescence is a developmental period of accelerating physical psychological social cultural and cognitive development often characterized by confronting and surmounting a myriad of challenges and establishing a sense of self identity and autonomy It is also unfortunately a period fraught with many threats to the health and well being of adolescents and with substantial consequent impairment and disability Many of the adverse health consequences experienced by adolescents are to a large extent the result of their risk behaviors Many adolescents today and perhaps an increasing number in the future are at risk for death disease and other adverse health outcomes that are not primarily biomedical in origin In general there has been a marked change in the causes of morbidity and mortality among adolescents Previously infectious diseases accounted for a disproportionate share of adolescent morbidity and mortality At present however the overwhelming toll of adolescent morbidity and mortality is the result of lifestyle practices     Striving for Excellence ,1993 Each vol a compilation of ERIC digests
