Eyes to the Hills Gordon Stainforth,1991 A collection of photographs of the mountains of Britain from an artist who is also a mountaineer Gordon Stainforth includes notes on the photographs details of the rock formations a salute to well known climbers and an exploration of the philosophy of mountaineering Catalogue of Drawings by British Artists and Artists of Foreign Origin Working in Great Britain ...: I-R British Museum. English Accents Christiana Payne,2018-01-18 In the century following the foundation of the Royal Academy in 1768

British art had an international reputation prints spread knowledge of the work of British artists around the globe and it was widely seen as the product of a modern commercial society and much admired by artists as diverse as Goya in Spain Delacroix in France and Bierstadt in America In recent years scholars working on this period have become increasingly aware of the international context of their subject but there has been no systematic analysis of the reception of British art abroad This collection of essays looks at the uses made of the paintings of Reynolds Hogarth Lawrence and their contemporaries on the continent of Europe and in the colonies and ex colonies of Australia and America The authors go beyond the simple issue of influence to consider how ideas and artistic conventions originating in the British Isles were adapted appropriated or resisted in these new environments In the process some surprising views of British art emerge demonstrating how a multi faceted view from the outside can correct and enrich the narrative produced within a national school and revealing some of the important connections that are obscured when art is studied as it so often is within narrow national boundaries

English Homes, Period I-[VI] ...: Period IV, v. 2 Henry Avray Tipping, 1928 Images of the Economy of Nature, 1650-1930 Antonello La Vergata, 2023-10-05 The book discusses ideas concerning the order and balance of nature or economy of nature from the late 17th century to the early 20th century The perspective taken is broad longue dur e and interdisciplinary and reveals the interplay of scientific philosophical moral and social ideas The story begins with natural theology dating roughly to the onset of the so called Newtonian Revolution and ends with the First World War The cut off date has been chosen for the following reasons the war changed the state of things affecting man s way of looking at and relating to nature both directly and indirectly indeed it put an end to most applications of Darwinism to society and history including interpretations of war as a form of the struggle for existence The author presents an overview of the different images of nature that were involved in these debates especially in the late 19th century when a large part of the scientific community paid lip service to Darwinism while practically each expert felt free to interpret it in his own distinct way The book also touches on the so called social Darwinism which was neither a real theory nor a common body of ideas and its various views of society and nature s economy Part of this book deals with the persistence of moralizing images of nature in the work of many authors One of the main features of the book is its wealth of detailed quotations In this way the author gives the reader the opportunity to see the original statements on which the author bases his discussion The author privileges the analysis of different positions over a historiography offering a merely linear narrative based on general implications of ideas and theories To revisit the concept of the so called Darwinian Revolution we need to examine the various perspectives of scientists and others their language and so to speak the lenses they used when reading facts and theories The book ends with some general reflections on Darwin and Darwinisms the plural is important as a case study on the relationship between intellectual history the history of science and contextual history Written by a historian this book really gives new multidisciplinary perspectives on the Darwinian Revolution
